Dis/Locating Whiteness Colors Light on Issues of Inequality

By Keil Wooten

The College Voice

February 16-19 were extremely busy for students of Connecticut College as the first round of the NESCAC Men’s Basketball Tournament was played. The tournament was held at the Halsey Health and Physical Education Center and was a exciting event for all fans of college basketball.

The first round of the tournament was played on February 16 with the #1 seed Wesleyan University defeating the #8 seed Middlebury College 49-39. The #2 seed Amherst College defeated the #7 seed Middlebury College 51-39.

The second round of the tournament was played on February 17 with the #1 seed Wesleyan University defeating the #4 seed Middlebury College 61-56. The #2 seed Amherst College defeated the #3 seed Middlebury College 73-69.

The championship game was played on February 19 with the #1 seed Wesleyan University defeating the #2 seed Amherst College 55-47. Wesleyan University will represent the NESCAC in the NCAA Men’s Basketball Tournament.

Montemore Discusses SGA’s Future Endeavors

By Lisa Mezczak

In his speech, Montemore explained the goals of SGA’s future endeavors. The first goal is to improve the lifestyle of the student, SGA will be working closely with HPRR during the semester to provide students with more choices this year.

The organization hopes to receive a student donation to support their goals in communication, SGA will be working closely with HPRR during the semester to provide students with more choices this year.

The organization hopes to receive a student donation to support their goals in communication, SGA will be working closely with HPRR during the semester to provide students with more choices this year.

HPRR Proclaims April Alternative Highs Month

Group plans a month of non-alcoholic adventures, ranging from barbeques to whitewater rafting

By Bethie Pancake

Alternative Highs Month, which is commemorated by SGA and the Health Promotion, Risk Reduction, and Education (HPRR) office, has organized the month of April as a month of non-alcoholic adventures. The Health Promotion, Risk Reduction, and Education (HPRR) office, has organized the month of April as a month of non-alcoholic adventures. The Health Promotion, Risk Reduction, and Education (HPRR) office, has organized the month of April as a month of non-alcoholic adventures. The Health Promotion, Risk Reduction, and Education (HPRR) office, has organized the month of April as a month of non-alcoholic adventures.
Renewable Energy Needs Further Explanation

The bumptious "renewable energy" has been everywhere on Connecticut College's campus since the students from Winter Brook. The recently formed Renewable Energy Club has plastered Conn with posters, control the campus in effusion advertising the club, and held a fake sale as an effort to produce interest in the idea of moving Conn toward more environmentally sound energy source. Renewable energy is undoubtedly a phrase filled with good intentions. Who could be against energy that is renewable? But, all too often, a vote of nothings is enough. The Renewable Energy Club has more adequately explained to the student body what exactly they天真 by renewable energy.

More recently, the Renewable Energy Club has been petitioning monies to request a 25-dollar tuition increase to fund a change in Conn's energy sources. While this is not a significant amount of money per student, without further explanation of what the energy change entails, no increase is needed.

Kudos to Lewis for Braving Harris for Students

Acting President Lewis should be congratulated for the concerted efforts he and his office have made to reach out and involve students. After two years of criticism, one does at least in part to poor communication and poor oil. Well, Lewis weekly dinner in Harris Hall represents both as olive branch from the administration in an effort to produce interest in the college community and an open forum. The incoming president and his or her senior administration will need to be held accountable for the successes and failures of the current administration. Having the president of the college make the commitment to the students would hopefully provide a clear commitment to the ideals of shared governance and improving Communication and Cooperation.

Having the president of the college make the commitment to the students would hopefully provide a clear commitment to the ideals of shared governance and improving Communication and Cooperation.

In addition to keeping scheduled commitments, Lewis has been visible for unscheduled events. He has made himself a symbol of care for the students, not only a fundraiser. While President Guarnieri did an excellent job of raising the endowment while she was here, it was not at the cost of a relationship with the student body. Acting President Lewis has attempted to attend as many Camel games as possible, including his recent Zamboni ride. While it is a crime when Lewis is fundraising is something that most students appreciate, yet despite such efforts, the administration has sought to tone down the student complaints.

What makes Conn a good college is not just the new North dorms, the Arts and Tech certificate, or the APA programs. What makes Conn a good college is not just the new North dorms, the Arts and Tech certificate, or the APA programs. What makes Conn a good college is not just the new North dorms, the Arts and Tech certificate, or the APA programs. What makes Conn a good college is not just the new North dorms, the Arts and Tech certificate, or the APA programs. What makes Conn a good college is not just the new North dorms, the Arts and Tech certificate, or the APA programs. What makes Conn a good college is not just the new North dorms, the Arts and Tech certificate, or the APA programs. What makes Conn a good college is not just the new North dorms, the Arts and Tech certificate, or the APA programs. What makes Conn a good college is not just the new North dorms, the Arts and Tech certificate, or the APA programs. What makes Conn a good college is not just the new North dorms, the Arts and Tech certificate, or the APA programs. What makes Conn a good college is not just the new North dorms, the Arts and Tech certificate, or the APA programs.

Letters To The Editor

Letters to the editor are welcome as long as they are not more than 250 words in length and pertain to college. They should be clear, concise, and well-written. Letters are subject to copyediting. Send letters to the editorial page editor, conn@conncoll.edu.

The College Voice

Box 4970 • Office (860) 439-2843
E-mail: covenant@conncoll.edu

The College Voice

New Editor: Tim Stevens
Senior Advisor: Robin Knase
Managing Editors: Maureen Miesmer, Devon McHugh
Copy Editors: Alia Elleberger, Elizabeth Tischler
Business Manager: Kate Hanover

Email: covenant@conncoll.edu

The George Washington University

GW classes travel abroad: Advance your knowledge while exploring new horizons

Business Environment in China: Washington, DC & China
Central European Politics: Czech Republic & Slovakia
Cultural Heritage Tourism in North Africa: Morocco & Tunisia
Culture and Language in North Africa: Morocco
Education in Sub-Saharan Africa: North Africa & Namibia International Travel: Lee County Training & Beyond.
Models of Educational Services Delivery in Greece
Palaeoanthropological Field Program in China
Privatization and Competition in Reform.
Washington, DC & England
Sustainable Tourism Consulting Projects.
Washington, DC & Bulgaria

GW also offers 500 study vacations and specialized summer programs at the Washington campus. DC.

www.gwu.edu
Hello Protocol, and Why It’s Going Straight to Rocks

AIMEE C. ABBOTT • DELUSIONS OF CANDOR

Listen up. I’m a friendly guy. I won’t hurt you. Look at that picture of me, sitting like a jack in self-defense. I’m an international student, just one of many from the United States and Britain. I’m here to study, to work, and to have fun. But be warned, I’m not afraid to use my voice to defend my rights and interests. If you want to respect me, respect those who come from different backgrounds. That’s the code of conduct I follow.

And if I don’t, pretend it’s not true for a reason:
First, that I don’t know you. By this I mean I don’t know you. By this I mean I don’t know you.
Second, that I don’t know you. By this I mean I don’t know you.

Don’t pretend you don’t know what I’m talking about. I’m saying this to all of you, because I believe in the power of unity and respect.

Indian foreign policy

In the foreign policy sphere, India has a unique position, given its past colonial history. It is the former colonial power of the British Empire, and as such, it has a strategic interest in maintaining its colonial legacy and influence in Asia. This can be seen in its close ties with Pakistan and Afghanistan, as well as its support for the United Nations and other international organizations. India also has a strong presence in the South Asia region, and its foreign policy is closely aligned with the interests of the United States and China.

President Bush believes that Americans are busy, really busy. So they don’t object to the bombings, per se, but they do feel that Bush’s one-word politics to foreign diplomacy, which is a bit of a concern given that they allow us to use their military bases. As long as they know that Bush feels about any size-related dearth of cool people. I’m glad you think it’s nice that we’re afforded this opportunity to look at each other’s countries, but I’m perfectly confident I’m doing something valuable in my role as an international student. That is, until I get to the point. Since it is an arm of the UN, I am going to take some time to devote this column to Constitutional and legal issues, particularly those pertaining to the Supreme Court. For instance, there are cases concerning our rights to protest or peacefully disseminate information to our peers concerning our rights to protest or peacefully disseminate information.

Can Asians Think as Asians

AIMEE C. ABBOTT • STILL THE GLOBE ROTATES AROUND ITS AXES

We have more to learn from the world beyond our borders. It is not enough to think of ourselves as Asians, but rather as members of a larger global community. We need to broaden our perspective and think beyond the confines of our own cultural and ethnic identities.

But the Khan Report presented a different viewpoint. It tells me that we haven’t heard the last of the evacuation. If this is the case, we need to make sure that we are prepared for whatever comes our way. We must be vigilant and proactive in our actions.

In a nutshell, the Indian foreign policy is a reflection of its strategic goals and interests. It is closely aligned with the interests of the United States and China, and it is a key player in the ongoing power struggle in the South Asia region. As such, it is an important player in the global political landscape, and its policies and actions will continue to shape the future of the region.

Maran Maran’s rule.

The current government of India, led by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, has focused on economic growth and development. It has introduced several economic reforms and policies, such as the Goods and Services Tax (GST) and the Unified Financial Code (UFC), which are aimed at simplifying the tax system and increasing revenue. The government has also implemented several social welfare programs, such as the Pradhan Mantri Jan Dhan Yojana (PMJDY) and the Pradhan Mantri Jan Aushadhi Yojana (PMJAY), which are aimed at reducing poverty and improving access to financial services and medicines. The government has also implemented several foreign policy initiatives, such as the Look East Policy and the India Plus Policy, which aim at strengthening India’s ties with its neighbors in the region.

If we pass, is because you — yes, you, Poindexter — have violated the laws of the land. It is not enough to think of ourselves as Asians, but rather as members of a larger global community. We need to broaden our perspective and think beyond the confines of our own cultural and ethnic identities.

The evolving and complex relationship between India and Pakistan is a testament to the need for dialogue and cooperation between these two countries. However, the conflict between the two countries has also led to a sense of mutual suspicion and hostility. This has created a complex web of interests and alliances, which have made it difficult to find common ground.

In the end, the only way to resolve this issue is to work towards a peaceful, mutually respectful, and equitable solution. This requires not just the commitment of the two countries, but also the support of the international community and the global community. It is a task that will require persistence, patience, and a willingness to engage in dialogue. But in the end, it is a task that is worth pursuing. It is a task that we must work together to achieve.
“Moments in Motion” Captures Essence of Dance

By Liz Burrow

A photography exhibition has debuted on campus in the Class Center, with the opening on February 16 and running through March 6. The exhibit, "Moments in Motion," features photography by student Mehdi Okasi. The 50 photos capture the College Circle dancers in action, performing pieces from the 2001 Faculty Dance Concert.

"Moments in Motion" is a signature event of the College Center near Myers Hall. In a campus contest sponsored by the Class Center, Okasi, a junior from New York City, won the opportunity to exhibit his photos in the Class Center. Okasi, who has taken photography classes at Connecticut College, submitted his work to the Class Center in January, and the photos were selected for display.

Okasi, who describes himself as a "self-taught" photographer, took the photos during and after the Faculty Dance Concert on February 16 and running through March 6. The exhibit features the same images that were sold at the concert.

Okasi said he was "overwhelmed" by the opportunity to exhibit his work on campus. He said he was "excited" to see the reaction of students to his photos.

The exhibition will be open to the public from February 16 through March 6. The Class Center is located on the lower level of the College Center, next to Myers Hall. Hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"Moments in Motion" is part of a larger effort to promote the arts on campus. The College has been actively encouraging students to exhibit their work, and the Class Center has been providing a venue for such exhibits.

"We want to encourage students to share their talents and showcase their work," said Okasi. "I hope that this exhibit will inspire others to pursue their interests and share their creativity."
Ballet Preljocaj Energizes Conn with Original Performance

By Jessica Desanva

A group of dancers defied traditional expectations of ballet and turned the Connecticut College Performing Arts Center into a wild, boundary-defying dance floor.

The Three Sisters Are Moving into Tannis

By Beth Seidman

The Three Sisters who share a small apartment in a small town are living a tedious life, but it was not until the fall of 1999 that Alex's life changed, when he met Chukov.

Love Letters: Emotional Readings at the Grounds

By Gina Ferrell

On Tuesday, February 13th, 5th Street Theater at the Grounds will be filled with readings of love letters from the past century and a half.

Labrador & Anweiler Tag on to Conn's Heartstrings

By Kristin Hicks

A scattered group of students gathered around the Valentine's Day to attend a performance at the Center for the Arts. The performance was put on by Labrador & Anweiler to entertain the entire audience.

Mexico/Caribbean or Central America $500 round trip plus tax. $179 one way plus tax. Other wide destinations cheap, Book tickets online at www.airtcht.com or (212) 219-7000.
Montemerlo Discusses SGA’s Future Endeavors

The docket are an analysis of the J-Board and what the concept of the honor means to students on Conn’s campus, a consideration of whether or not SGA should become politically associated, and to rewrite the preamble to the student bill of rights. As a more general wish, Montemerlo would like to see SGA spark an increase in activism amongst Conn’s students.

Finally, upon Multicultural Affairs Chair Coleman Long’s completion of his term, Montemerlo has urged Conn to take the high road and not match Trinity’s theft in kind. It remains to be seen if the students of Conn will heed such advice. Rumors of repercussions have been widespread, resulting in the Trinity Bantams crashing semifinal NESCAC action; a phone call from their SGA president to ours; Montemerlo urging Conn to take the high road and not match Trinity’s theft in kind.

By BANKS MACDOUGAL

Continued from page 1 has always been a tradition at Connecticut College that the campus has very recently begun to stray from. In order to achieve a stronger sense of community, the Covenant was created to ensure shared governance was working on campus.

In addition to strengthening shared governance, SGA expects a different semester from last, when they were bogged down with budget issues. On the docket are an analysis of the J-Board and what the concept of the honor means to students on Conn’s campus, a consideration of whether or not SGA should become politically associated, and to rewrite the preamble to the student bill of rights. As a more general wish, Montemerlo would like to see SGA spark an increase in activism amongst Conn’s students. Finally, upon Multicultural Affairs Chair Coleman Long’s completion of his term, Montemerlo has urged Conn to take the high road and not match Trinity’s theft in kind. It remains to be seen if the students of Conn will heed such advice.
Tough Lessons Learned by Women's Basketball Team

Many College basketball teams have experienced poor and inconsistent coaching, and this year's basketball team is no exception.上学期's disappointing 2000-2001 campaign.

Recent season's newness is gone, the puck would not bounce the

The team main goal was to win eight conference games they ended the season. They played hard and fair. They brought credit to themselves, the school, and the team. And you can quote me on that.”

Matt Coleman '02 offered this summary on the

Matt Coleman ’02 offered this summary on the

With nowhere to go but up, the men's ice

The Sloppy Sticks have played two tough times. Their last five games, in defensive prowess at the same time. This drastically improved the Canadians

We need some recruits and we need to grow. McGinley in doing some Overall, the team had a good time together. We had lots of fun together and it's a great group of girls. I think we'll all stay in touch because we loved basketball and enjoied our time, explained Geurts. “We work hard together. We hadn't had consistent coaching, which makes things hard.

We need a break right now but after spring vacation, it'll probably play some intramural basketball, just for fun. Then we'll start up again in fall, resist three days a week. Next year Kenny Kennedy will be back from abroad. Liz Pappas will be back and Lindsay Haskell might play as well. That will give us more flexibility there. There will be some strong junior years as well. We have a lot of talent just need to find a way to get the talent to and we need more experience.”

On paper, the Sloppy Sticks are poised to take the high-octane offense of WPSP as

1 games. Lead by three time defensive

the driving force behind their

and we're a small team, but we put up a

With a few more additions to an

The main team goal was to win eight

Games; doubling the four games they won

some recruiting for next year, which will

we stay with it because we love basketball and

just need to find a way to put that talent to

We will move on, and be a better team as a

and a defenseman, three netminders have been

the driving force behind their

continued from page 8

On paper, the Sloppy Sticks are poised to take the high-octane offense of WPSP as

1 games. Lead by three time defensive

the driving force behind their

and we're a small team, but we put up a

With a few more additions to an

The main team goal was to win eight

Games; doubling the four games they won

some recruiting for next year, which will

we stay with it because we love basketball and

just need to find a way to put that talent to

We will move on, and be a better team as a

and a defenseman, three netminders have been

the driving force behind their

and we're a small team, but we put up a

With a few more additions to an

The main team goal was to win eight

Games; doubling the four games they won

some recruiting for next year, which will

we stay with it because we love basketball and

just need to find a way to put that talent to

We will move on, and be a better team as a

and a defenseman, three netminders have been

the driving force behind their

and we're a small team, but we put up a

With a few more additions to an

The main team goal was to win eight

Games; doubling the four games they won

some recruiting for next year, which will

we stay with it because we love basketball and

just need to find a way to put that talent to

We will move on, and be a better team as a

and a defenseman, three netminders have been

the driving force behind their

and we're a small team, but we put up a

With a few more additions to an

The main team goal was to win eight

Games; doubling the four games they won

some recruiting for next year, which will

we stay with it because we love basketball and

just need to find a way to put that talent to

We will move on, and be a better team as a
Men's Basketball Surges into NESCAC Semifinals

BY STEVE WHITE

The men's basketball team came into Tuesday's game against Tufts in need of a win to keep their season alive. They walked away with a 73-67 victory, putting them in this weekend's semifinals of the NESCAC championship.

It was a huge win for the Camels. Not only did they win, but they did it in style. The team built a 17-point lead with 13 minutes left in the game, only to have the Jumbos rally back. By halftime, the score was 37-32.

Tufts, however, wouldn't be able to catch up. In the second half, the Camels dominated, pulling away to claim the win. They will now face Vassar, which beat Tufts, in the semifinals.

McNamara, who had 15 points and 13 rebounds, said, "The team played well. We had a good flow on offense. We made a lot of free throws and we were able to get the rebounds."

In the semifinal, the team will look to build off the momentum they gained in this game. They will need to focus on defense, which has been a weakness for them this season.

The team will also need to work on their free throw shooting, as they made only 15 of 26 a free throws.

The Camels will face a tough battle, but they have shown that they are capable of winning big games. They will need to keep their momentum going if they hope to make it to the championship.

Women's Squash Captures "Chow" at Cuppe

BY GRETCHEN McCULLOUGH

The women's squash team successfully defended their NESCAC title on Saturday at Yale University in New Haven, Conn.

The team has been working hard all season to improve their game and they were able to come out on top.

The team's performance was particularly impressive given their recent losses. They had lost their last two matches, but they were able to bounce back and claim victory.

The team's coach, Cassell, praised the team's effort, saying, "I'm very proud of the team. They've been through a lot this season and they've shown a lot of resilience."

The Camels will now move on to the national championships, where they will face some tough competition. They will need to continue to work hard if they hope to make it to the final matches.

The team will also need to focus on their individual games, as each player has a critical role to play.

The Camels have shown that they are capable of winning big games and they will need to keep their momentum going if they hope to make it to the championship.

The women's squash team is looking strong and they will be a force to be reckoned with in the national championships.