Dr. E. Linn to Speak Sunday At Special Weekend Session

On Sunday morning at 11:00 a.m. Dr. Edmund H. Linn will speak at Harkness Chapel for a special service. Dr. Linn is a member of the Department of Psychology at Harvard University and has been a faculty member since 1947. He received his A.B. degree from New College, Oxford, and his Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago. Dr. Linn has taught at the University of California, Berkeley, and at the University of Oregon. He is the author of several books on psychology and education, including "The Psychology of Learning" and "The Psychology of Teaching." He is also a member of the American Psychological Association and the American Educational Research Association.

Dr. E. H. Linn is a Professor of Philosophy.

Dr. Richard Goodwin, Department of History, has accepted an appointment as a consultant in the John Hopkins Press. Dr. Goodwin has been working with more than 100 reading biologists in the preparation of a secondary school biology course under the sponsorship of the National Science Foundation. This collaboration of scientists is now creating a program that will closely integrate biological science with other disciplines. The program will focus on film with classroom teaching, demonstrations, and laboratory work. The biologists will be made available to teachers and school systems in the summer of 1959.

The students who apply for the project will be meeting in small groups to plan the content of the film and the materials that will be used. The biologists will be ready for use in the fall of 1959, and the materials will be made available to teachers and school systems in the summer of 1959.

The Dial can publish because of subject, style, or language.

As a magazine, The Dial hopes to combine the beauty of literary journalism with the best large magazines with the literary freedom of a small one.

The Dial will have neither a 'policy' nor a literary director, nor a reading room which makes many writers feel constrained.

The Dial will not identify itself with any literary group or movement. There will be no editorial boards, nor is there a subject which will be systematically excluded from its pages, nor will there be any treatment which will always be the same or the author's reply.

As to length, the only limiting factor will be the number of words that can fit on one page.

The Dial will publish from time to time, the magazine will devote an entire issue to one or two pieces.

The Dial will publish self-contained sections from novels in progress. By so doing, the magazine will provide a forum within which writers can attract readers to novels prior to its publication in book form.

This announcement is also a call for writers. The Dial will consider fiction in English, including translations, from anywhere in the world. There is no fixed market rate; the magazine will report on submissions within forty-eight hours. The Dial will be published by The Dial Press, 461 Fourth Avenue, New York 16. All manuscripts should be addressed to The Editor, The Dial Press, New York 16.

To encourage the writing of short stories by young people, the Dial will sponsor The Dial Award, a prize of five hundred dollars. The Dial Award will be offered annually or biennially. Details of the competition to be announced at a future time.

The Dial will republish a selection of stories from the files of the old Dial magazine. Portions of the Dial will appear in October, January, April, July, and October. These will be available through bookstores at $1.50 a volume. The Dial will be published in book form. The Dial Press will not be concerned with The Dial, or The Dial Press, and the Dial's financial status will be unconnected with the magazine soliciting.

work is an important factor in attaining these positions. During the question period we discussed
the various opportunities offered to women in the fields of journalism. He quickly dispelled the idea that women in the fields of journalism are not taken seriously.

Also present at the dance were members of both the Colgate
Russian Club and the Colgate Russian Department. They sang a few American songs and a few American ones of Russian expansion by creating a crisis in one part of the world while talking control of another part while the world's attention is on the crisis area.

Both clubs viewed the conference
as a worthwhile experiment.

Sunday afternoon Ward Terry
read us his very interesting paper on the changes that the Communist government has made in the Russian language, which led to discussion of thought control through language. Dr. Perry, then spoke to us on the Berlin

crisis emphasizing the subtleties of Russian expansion by creating a crisis in one part of the world
while talking control of another part while the world's attention
is on the crisis area.

Science Meeting Held

The Connecticut Valley Student Science Conference, held Saturday, April 11, for the purpose of sharing scientific knowledge among students, was attended by about thirty girls from Connecticut College. Three faculty members, Miss Johnston, Miss Jones, and Miss Habbott accompanied the group. Transportation was provided in the form of a bus which left the campus at 8 a.m. and returned in the evening.

The program began at 11 a.m. with an address on the timely topic of "Space Medicine" by Captain Henry Willis, an air force physician. After lunch students and faculty had the opportunity to attend their choice of various twenty-minute speeches given by students from the nine participating colleges and universities: University of Massachusetts, Connecticut College, Mount Holyoke, University of Connecticut, Saint Joseph's College, Albertus Magnus, American International College, Wesleyan, and Trinity.

Those from this college who presented papers and set up demonstrations are as follows: Mary Ann Marshall '60, Marion Simonds '61 and Amelia Rachel '62, Marilyn Hinkle '60 and Edwina Czajkowski '61, Gail Turner '60 and Barbara Levine '62, Margaret Goodman '62.

Reports from those who attended the conference indicate that they considered the trip to be "enlightening, stimulating, and certainly worthwhile."

Radio

Connecticut College Conversations and Concerts will be heard over WICN, Norwich, at 9:30 p.m. Friday, April 17 and stations WNLC, New London, at 9:15 p.m. Sunday, April 19. The guest speaker will be Berta Moreitz Gwinnell Carter of the Department of Government from Smith College. She will be introduced by Jean Leblon of the Department of French. The Rising Nationalism in West Africa will be the topic.

The College Student Hour will be broadcast at 9:15 p.m. Wednesday, April 22 over station WICN. The program features Music for the Hear by Barlow and Chopin, with Marcia Corbett '59 as pianist. Randie Whitman '61 is chairman of the program.

Campus Radio from the campus radio station, WNLC, (620 on your dial), will be broadcast on Monday through Thursday, April 20-23, at 5:15 p.m. On Monday from 5:15-5:30, The Gibbs High Program will be presented.
