Senior Class Presidential Candidates

Laurie Heiss

The candidacy for class reps does not involve any particular issues except perhaps communication which is a function of the ambition of the dorm reps. The position itself does not involve a martyrdom of work done by one person or an executive board. Rather, the efforts of the president are dependent on the willingness and energy of the reps themselves. There are more enjoyable things to do and better or different activities (except graduation) until the support of the reps is there because I will not run a one or two or three-man show. I'd like to coordinate this effort though and have enduring interests in SGA affairs. I know what I'm getting into and have abundant vigor, but mine alone is useless. Be energy conscious and elect good council members in your dorm.

Thanks.

Steven James

I believe that the Senior Year is an important time for the individual and for the college community. As Class President, I must be able to reflect this interest in maintaining the framework for a rewarding year. This framework will arise through the responsiveness of our government to the needs and desires of our class. My emphasis will be on fund-raising for I feel that by having the necessary financial support, we will be able to have diversified events and thus move closer towards a stronger class unity. This framework will also emerge through the utilization of the talents and personalities of our entire class. I deeply hold the conviction that we have the potential within our class to create both a successful and an enriching senior year.

Through my involvement over the past three years, I have gained enough experience to make me feel confident in my ability to institute the necessary programs and policies to create this framework. I believe that we can elaborate a successful senior year and thus ask for your vote for Senior Class President.

Carolyn Nalbandian

I, Carolyn Nalbandian, am running for the office of Senior class president.

As a candidate for this position, I am willing to take your spathy and turn it into something which will benefit our class. I realize the task involved in stating this, but I believe that in our Senior year, we can become a cohesive force which the other classes will want to model themselves after. Our class should be the powerhouse for which high times and fruitful activities flow.

In the experience which I have attained as class representative for two years, social chairman of J.A., and Advertising editor of "Pundit," I feel I am the initiating force behind a successful year for everyone.

Richard McLellan

My name is Richard McLellan and I am running for President of the Class of '78. I am a Government and American History double-major, and an also somewhat active in the Music and Theater Depts. Last semester I served as Social Chairman to Branford. This, of course, gave me a seat on House Council and Social Board. In this capacity I won a unanimous vote of confidence from my dorm. I know what kind of hard work will be necessary to fulfill my duties, and have already planned on lightening up on my course load, should I be elected.

As seniors next year we will all, in some ways, be expert of what lies ahead in the real world. It won't be long before these days of exams and papers turn into memories of good times and good friends. I will try in every possible next, to make these good times for you to remember later on. It's too late to be apathetic, so come on out and vote.

P.S. There is still time to contribute to the Junior Class Talent Show.

Mary Barrett

My name is Mary Barrett and I am running for the position of senior class Judiciary Board representative. Although I have not previously served on the Judiciary Board, I do feel I am qualified in seeking this job.

Three years as a member of the Connecticut College community have given me ample exposure to the Honor Code and the problems and benefits that arise from such an Honor system. I value highly the assumption made by such a system - that I am a person of honor, living among other persons of honor. I feel this assumption is based on enough confidence from my dorm. I realize that the Honor Code, as it is written, is a syndrome of the student body as a whole, throughout the college community, in order that all members may be reflective of the desires of a diverse student community, in order to be successful. There are enough people on campus dedicated to having a good time, that there should be no lack of interest or participation in a wide range of activities. I plan on devoting time and energy to the job, so support me with your vote.

Secretory-Treasurer will be appointed

Senior Candidates for Judiciary Board Chairman

Michael Colnes

After much thought, I am running for reelection to the Judiciary Board. After serving three years, I have had to seriously consider what more I could offer in a fourth. I came up with the following: First and foremost as a member of the Conn. College community I have a personal interest in the direction of J.B. policy. I have had the opportunity to develop a clear and concise image of what that direction should be. As long as I am convinced that my views reflect those of some substantial portion of our community, then they deserve representation on this board.

Secondly, the board has been steadily progressing towards several major policy decisions over the last several years which may well be settled during the next term. My role on next year's board could well be to speak for some of previous board's reasoning in these matters, so that they may be balanced against the views of new board members.

My view of the role of the Judiciary Board was a reconsideration. I feel that the board should serve as a communication bridge between the abstract honor code and the students, faculty, and administration which comprise our community. Its job is to interpret the honor code, and to weigh any interpretation against the realities of living and studying at Connecticut College. The board is the instrument through which the honor code may be molded to meet our needs.

These considerations, as well as a look at what I have or have not accomplished in what I set out to do on the board have led me to run again. I ask for your support and your help, that next year's board may be as productive as possible.

Jay Krasner

Fairness, impartiality and justice to all.
As a sophomore I have gained much insight from our college community in the time I have been here. I have come to the conclusion that just wanting to be unified is not enough for any class, organization, or interest group. To be realistic, we as the class of 1979 must look ahead not only to next year but also at the next four years that we as a class organize itself effectively enough to influence positive and necessary changes in our school and college community? In this vein, I announce my candidacy for the presidency of the Junior Class.

The only way to bring a class together is to have more class fusion. I believe this is the major problem. Students become apathetic when they have no way to speak out and be heard. Why should people bother to be concerned when no one listens? It is up to the elected officials to seek out and represent the students' views. To achieve this, active leadership is needed. It is also up to the elected officials to promote class functions and school events. However, to be successful, this requires input and assistance from the class as a whole. This is crucial. I believe that I can contribute to the Class of 79 by helping it do as much as possible for itself and for the school.

Please vote.

Jr. Treasurer

Diana Ridgway
My name is Diana Ridgway and I am running for the position of Treasurer of the Junior Class 77-78. This is the first year that this position will be elected one, which makes it very important.

I have served on House Council and I am enthusiastic about campus government and student power. After attending the all-campus forum on student government problems, held on April 6, I became more personally interested in student government. My discussion was a good start, but a very limited one, and now it's time for the action. I then decided to become deeply involved and run for a student government office.

The future of Student Government is at stake, and I would assure that changes made will be ones that our class approves of, since we expect to be here for three more years. I would get on that committee! We need both a voice in Student Government, and a pair of ears in the Sophomore Class, and I would like to be both.

The visibility of the Class Council is also in danger. As a member of our Class Council this year, I think that with mutual respect, and an atmosphere of freedom of expression, student opinions can be brought across, and the Council will have served its purpose as a sounding board. Perhaps it would be best if the Council would be an organizer, a mediator, and a collector of ideas and opinions. In co-operation with the other officers you elect, and with your support, Sophomore Class Government can be your Class Government.

Only a cohesive class can act intelligently.

Michael Litchman

I would like very much to be President of the Sophomore Class. I wish to devote my time and ample energy to the revitalization of Student Government, and to ensure that we have a Student Government that listens, not only to its own officers, but to the Student Body, from whom the power of Student Government is derived.

Student Government is at a crossroads at this point in its history. A part of its evaluation, a committee of the College Council is deciding the future of that body, which is the only mode of communication between students and faculty on campus and the College. The Class is the key organ in the College as a member of the College Council and the Constitution Committee. Aside from this functional aspect, however, the main purpose of the Class President must not be blurred by these organizational tasks. Rather, it is precisely the President's purpose is an outgrowth of these organizational, governmental bodies. My concept of the President is that he must, along with the other class and student government officers, obtain a consensus of class needs and wants; herein lies the most demanding aspect of the office. In order to accomplish what the class as a whole wishes, the coherency of the class is a must, concerning class policy and its subsequent implementation. The Class President provides the vital leadership toward achievement by remaining closely attuned to the opinions of the class itself. Here, 'unity' is the key word; it is the focal point toward which the Class President must direct his energies. Only an unified, cohesive class can act intelligently and responsibly. The Class President can, in conjunction with the other government officials, not only help provide for the general welfare of the college, but also for the specific desires of the Sophomore Class. This much needed unity as well as the organizational function of the office of Class President is what I will strive to accomplish as Sophomore President if elected.

Janice Mayer

Class Government has the potential to be as energetic and essential to the community as any other component of student government at Connecticut College. Unfortunately though it seems to lack the unity that the Dorm Councils maintain, and the energy the Class Council and Judiciary Board stimulate in the community.

Also, the members of the Class Council should work as a team on issues that affect the Class. The Class President should set the direction of the class and the work of the Class Council, with the maintenance of interest among the Class members, as to the functioning of the college government. More specifically, the Class Council should work as a team — the President should realize that the role that the Representatives play is equally as important as his or her position, for they reflect the views of the students.

Also, the members of the Class should be kept notified by their President of any important events that affect them. Logically, the members can't be expected to participate if they do not know how the issues or events being planned.

My approach to the role of the Class President: I would be an open one. Any and all suggestions would be welcome from the Class members. I would strive to keep our class consensus at College Council meetings, and foremost, I would try to establish that no issue that affects our Class has to offer by establishing the Class Council as a group effort from the beginning.

Thank you for your consideration.
Sophomore Secretary-Treasurer

Susan Brewster

This year I enjoyed serving as Secretary-Treasurer, of the Freshman Class and would again like the opportunity to work for the Class of 1980. The importance of this position is often overlooked when one represents one of the most influential positions on the class council. As an elected officer of the class, the Secretary-Treasurer's vote should reflect a thoughtful understanding of past and present class procedures. The position of secretary-treasurer requires an efficient and responsible person who will inform the class of the activities of their government, and one who will keep the class records in order. Having both the experience and the enthusiasm to participate in the student government, I, again, offer you my services as your class Secretary-Treasurer.

Karen Frankian

My name is Karen Frankian and I am running for sophomore class Judiciary Board representation. There are two concerns which best reflect my reasons for running. Firstly, I consider it of great importance to actively uphold the Honor Code. Secondly, I believe that aiding my colleagues. Therefore, I have been very active in affairs that concern the freshmen of the Class of 1980. I have attended both board meetings and have been a member of the board's case handling committee. If elected, I would like to help make things work the way we want them to, for the better, and to make things work in getting your ideas and opinions voiced. Only you, the Sophomore Class, knows what you want. With the efforts of the many creative minds we have working together, there is no need for us to be passive in making things work the way we want them to, for the better, and to make things work in getting your ideas and opinions voiced.

Peter Robinson

In order for the Judiciary Board to effectively function, students and faculty must realize that the role of the board is not as important as reporting academic and social infractions are concerned. Judging other students is only the beginning of an important responsibility. Therefore, I believe that I can be trusted to uphold the Honor Code and to maintain the fine reputation of this position. My name is Peter Robinson, and I am running for Sophomore Secretary-Treasurer for the Sophomore Class. As a freshman I have not been very active in affairs that concern the student body, but I have to start somewhere, and I believe that now is the time for me to become involved. If you are interested in the affairs of the student body and would enjoy being a member of the Sophomore Class Council along with my colleagues, I will gladly explain the responsibilities of the Secretary-Treasurer to record and distribute minutes of all the meetings, and to be responsible for keeping accurate records of the class finances. In addition to reporting regularly to the Class Council, the Secretary-Treasurer assures the duties of the president of the event in the event of his absence or upon his request. If the Presidency becomes permanently vacated, the Secretary-Treasurer holds the office until a new election for the office can be filled. Though I have not been involved in Student Government affairs at Connecticut College my high school Student Government experience has given me a sufficient reason to believe that I would be well qualified for the position. I was a member of the Student Council for 4 years which included taking minutes of meetings and reporting back to the members of my class. I was also secretary-treasurer of various senior-related activities. This year I am a member and also secretary-treasurer of the Gospel Choir, "The Black Voices of Pride," here on campus. If elected, I would like to give up a lot of your own time. If elected I would be easily accessible and very willing to give up any of your time. If elected I would be easily accessible and very willing to give up any of your time. If elected I would be easily accessible and very willing to give up any of your time. If elected I would be easily accessible and very willing to give up any of your time.

Setoria Jackson

My name is Setoria Jackson and I am running for one of the two Judiciary Class positions allotted to the sophomore class. I am running because I want to get involved and I feel I will be able to work with the new chairmain, Jerry Carrington, quite well.

If elected, I would like to help Jerry with his reforms to make the class council a lot closer and of the matriculation process. It is most important to inform and educate the incoming freshmen of the honor system Conn. operates under. The freshmen have to be made aware of the responsibilities they assume when they matriculate. Even though I have not been a member of the board, it has been an interest of mine for quite some time. I attended both components of your diet. Like excess fat and sugar, which can contribute to tooth decay, obesity, bowel cancer, diabetes and heart disease. Do you know why people all over the world, even right here in the United States, are starving? And why the U.S. is providing less food aid and than it did years ago? I am not going to take one day and talk about all of these things. With teach-ins, rallies, workshops, food fairs, conferences, special meals, events, and with a special emphasis on nutrition — the battle against diet and disease. Food Day, April 21, all across America.

Candiates for Sophomore Social Board

Celayne Hill

I am Celayne Hill, and I live in Larrabee. I am not going to bore you with a long list of my credentials, for I am running for Sophomore Representative on the Social Board. I have no mix-ups, and I can promise no miracles. If I am elected, I would serve on the Social Board representing the incoming freshman class and their ideas. I have been here at Connecticut College for almost a whole year, and I believe that this has made me better. I would like to raise the level of activities here at Conn. There are too many people who talk all the time about what should be done, and if I am elected, I would be elected to make changes in getting your ideas and opinions voiced. Only you, the Sophomore Class, know what you want. With the efforts of the many creative minds we have working together, there is no need for us to be passive in making things work the way we want them to, for the better, and to make things work in getting your ideas and opinions voiced.

Laura Novick

A little excitement on the weekends, and maybe even on the weekdays, can only be beneficial. In fact, diversions from study and work have proved to increase your efficiency when one has to work. I think things can get rather slow around here. On weekends, in particular, there is not always something exciting going on, and I want to help to get a little more organized entertainment into our lives at Conn. Two of my better known qualities are my skills at laughing and partying! As Sophomore Social Representative I could put these skills to good use in suggesting and arranging ideas for parties and other social activities around campus. I am willing to give you my time so that we can all see some progress in these areas. Please vote for me, Laura Novick, for Soph. Soc. Bd. Rep. Thank you.

Food Day, April 21

Food Day

Do you eat every day. Maybe even two or three times a day, if you're lucky. Do you ever stop to think about the food you eat? Really think about it? Do you know what's in your food? The pesticides, preservatives, hormones, additives, and other mysterious "line print" ingredients. What do you think about the components of your diet, like excess fat and sugar, which can contribute to tooth decay, obesity, bowel cancer, diabetes and heart disease? Do you know why people all over the world, even right here in the United States, are starving? And why the U.S. is providing less food aid and than it did years ago? I am not going to take one day and talk about all of these things. With teach-ins, rallies, workshops, food fairs, conferences, special meals, events, and with a special emphasis on nutrition — the battle against diet and disease. Food Day, April 21, all across America. Do your body a favor. Be there.

Chamber music plays a new note

by Lawrence Walters

On Sunday, April 17, at 2:30 p.m. in the College House living room the premier of a totally new type of student recital will take place.

The INFORMAL STUDENT CHAMBER MUSIC RECITAL WORKSHOP consisting totally of original student compositions will be the first recital in Conn's history in which the audience can take an active part. The recital will be more an educational experience than a concert performance.

Two part pieces composed by John Brolly, Mitch Pine, Lisa Quinno, Connie Smith, Jack Wade, and Larry Walters will be played and then the audience and the composer will briefly discuss how the work was composed, what the piece's themes are, how the different parts of the piece are present in relation to each other, the composition's texture and mood, and any other questions anyone may have related to the composer's work.

This workshop will be an invaluable experience for anyone interested in learning how a composer writes different styles of music and what is contained in each of these musical forms.

Anyone wishing to attend is strongly encouraged to do so, whether you have a limited or extensive knowledge of music.

Professor Wiles revisits Conn

The Rev. Gordon P. Wiles, professor emeritus of religion at Connecticut College, will deliver the second "De Literis" series lecture Thursday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. in room 113, New London Hall.

Prof. Wiles holds a seminary diploma from Westminster Theological College, Cambridge, England, and has done additional graduate study at Princeton Theological Seminary.

Yale University awarded him an M.A. in religious studies and conferred on him a Ph.D. degree for his research in Pauline Studies, the New Testament area for which he is well known.

He received the B.A. and M.A. in classics from Rhodes University, South Africa and a B.A. and M.A. in theology from Cambridge, England. The topic of his paper will be "South Africa: Grounds for Hope?"

Prof. Wiles has provided the following background for the lecture, which is sponsored by the Connecticut College Committee on Lectures and Discussion, is open to the public at no charge.

I was born in South Africa in 1931 and lived there until 1951, except for a few years in England for study at Cambridge University, 1931-35.

As a Presbyterian minister in South Africa I was a vocal opponent of racial segregation and was associated with such liberal leaders as Jan Hofmeyr (liberal Cabinet Minister), Alan Paton (champion of the blacks), Professor Z.K. Matthews (black leader and for some time an official of the World Council of Churches), and others.

I left South Africa permanently, because of my opposition to the mass of repressive legislation introduced at that time by the newly empowered National Government under Dr. Malan— from 1948 on. I said goodbye to my South African life and breathed a freer air in America, where I became naturalized.

My recent return to visit South Africa, after a lapse of twenty years, reintroduced me to the tragedy of apartheid, mounting to a climax under the present National Government under Prime Minister Vorster. The riots of Soweto and Langa had just erupted. I met many of those whites (rank and file, and leaders) who oppose the government and its apartheid policies.

My sense of the evil of apartheid, the obduracy of the government, the rising black militancy, the increasing white opposition, and my understanding of what a race and civil war could do to South Africa and the inevitable disaster that would follow—all this lies behind my paper, "South Africa: Is There Any Hope?"

Pundit is publishing this issue as a supplement to our regular set of weekly editions. It is simply a result of the SGA's need for a forum to publish the platforms of its various candidates; this supplement does not attempt to include all of the week's news, features, fine-arts, and sports.

Next Thursday, April 21, Pundit will publish an expanded edition for Parent's Weekend. Featured will be a study (in both photos and words) of the best rooms on campus, the lottery process, and the new Housefellows.

An Apology to Sharon McEltyre and course on hard academic studies, relaxation is the key to survival." (Dwight Stones, 1976) Here at Conn., Dorn Hoos is one source of relaxation for the athletically inclined. Due to student interest, Donn Hoops is one source of amusing articles to keep the Pundit readers abreast of the league results. Obviously, we did not always amuse. Therefore, we would like to take this opportunity to apologize to Sharon McEltyre, who complained about our April 7 column. We would have taken our humor in-which it was not a good day to Harkness. It was a not a good day to Harkness. It would be more consistent for these two teams to Harkness Field.

A Camel in action vs. Notre Dame

by John Rotschich

The Connecticut College Men's Lacrosse team challenged Notre Dame for four quarters here Friday afternoon. The outcome was a 5-5 defeat. C.C. gave a hundred per cent effort and proved they are still not completely talented, but also able to compete with powerful opponents.

Unquestionably, Friday was unseasonably chilly. The estimated three-hundred plus crowd braved the cold to urge the College team to victory. The entire squad was uncharacteristically psyched after six weeks of diligent practice. Initially Conn. was down 4-1. Davenport Scott, after consuming two pounds of raw meat, scored our first goal. The battle had begun. The infamous Beaver (Stallone) Morrin, energized after drinking five slightly undercooked eggs, scored our second tally. Connecticut's bid for victory fell short. However, Bear (Worm) did manage to break into the win column by beating a crippled Alumni team 66-36 and a hapless J.A. II out for the count.

J.A. clinched the fourth and final play-off spot in the South by defeating Freeman last Thursday night. Gator outscored Big Red 24-22 but his teammates couldn't miss against Harkness and Rickie Siegel. In spite of a mediocre record, Burke I has played some solid ball. They have lost six games by 3 points or less, the harshest loss being their 49-67 overtime heartbreaker to the Faculty Headhunters last Wednesday. B.K. I sewed up the final play-off in the North by beating J.A. 46-43 and snapping a 6 game J.A. win streak. Once again the Gator won the battle, outscoring Big Red 24-22 but his teammates could not provide enough help to keep the scores from reaching 40-30. Crow and Tuna Player-of-the-week: Lionel Cullin

Lionel's great defense and awesome offense is what makes Hamilton-Windham a championship favorite. II

Hopefully, the refereeing in the play-offs will be more consistent with the rules of modern warfare. In other action, Harkness continued to stumble into the play-offs as they were crucified on the day before Easter by the Morrison Catholics 53-41. McCauley, McCarthy, and Fiskio combined for 38 of those points, the clincher being a turn around banker by McCauley at the buzzer over the heathen Hebe, Jeff Sado. It was not a good day for the Matzoh boys. Harkness was deadly outside shooting with tough inside play by their big men. The speed of Perry and Finner contributed many points for Quad this season and the pressing 3-2 defense of Hamilton-Windham has also produced numerous quick baskets. The tough 2-1-2 of the Quad has shut down high scoring opponents as well as produce fast fast break opportunities. Bench strength is another plus for these two teams since many times the outcome of a game is decided not by who is playing well but by who is riding the pine. In foul trouble. Should either of these teams not win it all, look for West Side or Faculty as long-shot possibilities.
