Dr. Axiotis States One Out Of Eleven Students Seeks Professional Advice

By Lynn Kinsell

Dr. Anthony Axiotis, the college psychiatrist, described and examined the psychiatric facilities available to every student in order to explain the functioning of his services and purposes.

The consultation, guidance and occasionally advised therapy is sought by one out of every eleven Connecticut College students. Dr. Axiotis believes that it is in the best interest of the students to seek professional opinion and experience are available for the individual mental evaluation, including diagnosis, disposition and recommendation.

In the "college experience", in intellectual stimulation is intensified for the development of the student's knowledge and mental discipline. But if this neglects the significance of the "emotional climate" of the student, with an emotional problem, seeks the advice of a psychiatrist, described and examined the psychiatric facilities available to every student in order to explain the functioning of his services and purposes.

Yet he is aware of the probable numbers of troubled students who will not seek his help. "There are, of course, those who feel their emotional problem is a disregarded experience, a sort of weakness. Truthfully, they are afraid to face up to their problem and do something about it. They prolong their emotional turmoil usually by seeking help through dormitory group therapy with others more or less suffering from similar conflicts."

He earnestly continued, "I would like to emphasize how wrong this attitude is and contrary to their welfare. Our experience has proved, almost invariably, that an emotional disturbance, unless it is reveal and due to situations that make your life unbearable, you will not surface unless some help is available."

The topic of privacy, one much discussed on campus in connection with reluctance to confide in a psychiatrist, produced this question, "Is it ever permissible for the students and the psychiatrist. It goes without saying that in the college experience, a sort of weakness. However, it should be emphasized that in such a case no information of a personal nature is revealed."

Perhaps a major obstacle to the success of the psychiatric facilities reaching and helping all those in need of it is the "social stigma" generally attached to emotional instability or disturbance and need for assistance. Dr. Axiotis is aware of this problem and believes that in some cases, it demands social understanding and cooperation.

He commented, "No wonder ArtCarved settings hold a diamond so delicately, it's almost frightening."
President Shain Announces New Faculty Appointments

(Connecticut College News Office)

At Wednesday’s meeting of the Connecticut College faculty, President Charles R. Shain announced the appointment of present faculty members to new positions for the 1966-67 academic year.

Mrs. Mackie L. Jarrell will be assistant dean of the College of English to succeed Prof. Hamilton S. Smoyer. Following his retirement in June, Dr. Smoyer will become a teaching scholar in English at the College.

There are thirteen chairmen of academic departments and an acting dean of freshmen who have been named to replace faculty members who are leaving to be away from the campus next year on sabbatical leaves.

David G. Forster, assistant professor of physics, will become acting chairman of that department, during the first semester. Prof. Helen M. Malvey will be acting chairman of the history department for the second semester. Robert H. Ehrlich, associate professor of political science, will associate professor to associate professor in February, will be acting head of the psychology department for the full academic year.

Connecticut Chorus, Yale Glee Club To Perform Brahms’ German Requiem

The Connecticut College Chorus and the Yale Glee Club will precede the Brahms’ German Requiem on Tuesday, April 26, at 8 p.m. in Palmer Auditorium.

The combined choruses will be accompanied by a full symphony orchestra, composed of members of the New York Philharmonic, with Yoko Matsuda, concertmaterist. Soloists include Adele Burnham, soprano, and Benjamin DeLoache, baritone.

This performance marks the first formal appearance of American-born British conductor David Enns, who was appointed director of the College’s music department last summer.

Wilansky To Present 3 Math Lectures

Professor Albert Wilansky will speak on "Calculus Without Variables" in the Hale Lecture Room, at 7 p.m. with a reception following.

"Is the residential character of the college being weakened?"

The following statement regarding the alteration of the residential character of the college, it points out several peripheral arguments. The arguments include the following points:

- The decision regarding the alteration of the residential character of the college was made by a large majority, and the fact that if seniors have cars, then underclassmen will have cars.

The resolution was drawn up by Mr. Easter Weatherby’s committee, and the final decision regarding the alteration of the residential character of the college is to be held in a second legislative session, the arguments include the following points:

FALL HOLIDAY
By Robert Hale

There is a quite justified feeling on campus that drama gets too insistent attention at Connecticut College. For a liberal arts institution of some stature we are sadly weak in theatre arts. We are less weak this week than we were last week, thanks to Wiz and Candle, thanks to Maurice Breslow, thanks to David Krones.

Friday night a breath of life was felt in Palmer Auditorium. After an unfortunate delay caused by a flat tire, the cast continued by a combination of a roast and roll epic on the lodgepole, the curtain went up on a fantastic jumble of a set and what appeared to be Moses in costume. Orson Welles, escaped from Moby Dick, was only Grandfather. The symbols and similies of the old, and wall papered with pictures feathered her. She is leaving Monday for a dixon.

Our own Kranes, David, is trying to say a great deal in "Fall Holiday," perhaps too much. He covers all fronts, taking jabs at all causes and causes. His "Pop hop ... see Pop hop ... see Pop hop" is revealing Meg and Lloyd in a bedroom together to draw sustenance from the captain's bridge cum pulpit. The symbols of the old, and wall papered with pictures, the symbols and similies of the old, and wall papered. He covers all fronts, taking jabs at all causes and causes.

On Wednesday night, April 27, at 7:30 p.m., the Connecticut College Bookstore will launch the Special Librarian Association's new book, "Special Library Careers to Be Discussed at Tea."

The Special Libraries Association has branches throughout the country and acts as a placement office and recruitment committee for Special Librarians. A Special Librarian is a trained professional who serves as the link between the transmitter of information and the receiver of the same information. Through his knowledge of methods of obtaining, handling, storing, analyzing, and distributing information and his understanding of the significance of this information to the work of his employer, the Special Librarian makes possible the smooth flow of information.

Special Librarians work for corporations, trade associations, banks, government agencies, museums, hospitals, departments of universities and public libraries, research laboratories, advertising agencies, air lines, or any organization requiring specialized information.

Girls now holding campus jobs in the college library will also be present at the tea to answer questions about their present duties.

House of Rep. Draws Up 2 Petitions
For Changes in House Councils
By Joyce Todd

A petition, drawn up by Heather Woods, Emily Davis and Gina Michendle, concerning the com- position and function of the House Councils was submitted to the House of Representatives at their meeting on April 19.

The ideas behind the petition concerns all levels of the House of Representatives, House Councils and House Meetings during recent weeks. The two-fold purpose of the petition was to present the re- quirements of the student body and its representa- tors and to give the House of Representatives itself a concrete pro- posal with which to work.

The House of Representatives in its April 13 meeting voted on three motions. At that time the general consensus of its members seemed to be that a judicial body is needed in each dorm to take care of Honor Court's overflow of minor judicial functions. The basic con- troversy was whether to have one body fulfill both legislative and judicial functions or whether to have two separate bodies.

Joan, a member of AS Hall, commented, "This was a search for opin- ion. It's very tentative is indi- cated by the close decisions.

Between the meeting of April 19 and April 20 a petition was drawn up for presentation. The petition proposed that the House Councils should be composed of president, vice-president, secretary and the four dorm class represen- tatives. Other elected officers, be- sides work chairman, fire chief and librarians, would attend the meet- ings when necessary.

This petition favored the idea that the House Council is to be a body to receive complaints and to propose changes and improve- ments as each dorm feels it needs.

In addition, the petition proposed that House Councils should be empowered with limited judi- ticial functions. Heather Woods be- lieved that such a proposition would make the student body better understand the workings and policies of the Honor System.

It would enable House Court to be more than a passive body and to work constructively on current problems facing the Court. It would also enable Honor Court to have direct contact with each dorm.

She added, "I hope every- one on campus sees its benefits.

Gina felt that the existence of such a body "would strengthen (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love, the Pilkington men tum "round in circles deliver- ing girls to their dorms after curfew, and Honor Court turns its attention to an unusual amount of lateness cases.

The procedure when you are late returning to campus is - SIGN IN with the campus guard.

-SIGN IN on the late sheet in your dorm.

-REPORT YOURSELF to Coast. You have 10 minutes to do the last because lateness is an infraction of the regulations.

Of course the solution to the problem is not to be late.

Even Tennyson knew that!

A summer to remember......

ArtCarved settings hold a diamond so delicately, it's almost frightening.

"We're even designed a diamond engagement ring to resemble the soft fragile petals of a new spring flower. So the diamond you show off to the world will be a diamond...But elegant too..."

In the new ArtCarved collection, you can choose from slim, scoring, majestic designs. And without being frightened.

Because we've designed all the diamonds we set, we also guarantee they will stay right there.

Several instances they were exceeded.

There no so fragrant weak spots. Kenneth Freedman, Lynn Kastner, Norman Mock, Judith Greenberg, Stephen Wax, Carla Meyer, Jeff Black and William Bruder all deserve plaudits. I suspect some more successfully developed characters divorced from their own other, but it was not apparent to the audience.

The set was also excellent. I had imagination and style and reflected accurately the incompatibility of the lives of the characters it housed. Mr. Beulick's direction was most gratifying. He kept all threads taut and in motion and never entangled the skeins. We are fortunate to have had him at the helm.

The cast we saw was good. In several London AAUW Supports Funds

For Financial Aid To Freshman

(Connecticut College News Office)

The New London branch of the American Association of University Women has contributed $440 to Connecticut College scholarship funds, it was announced by Mrs. Hartley P. Pool, the College's student financial aid officer.

The gift represents a portion of the proceeds derived from two annual $20 performances of the children's play, "Sleeping Beauty of Labrador." The production was staged in Palmer Auditorium by the Community Theatre Players of New London County.

Each year the local AAUW gives scholarship assistance to one student financial aid officer.

The set was also excellent.
