Cornerstone For New Dormitory, Jane Addams House, Is Laid Saturday Before Large Group

Saturday noon found a large group of parents and students witnessing the laying of the cornerstone for the new dormitory at Connecticut College. The ceremony opened by singing "God of all Nature," which was rendered very beautifully. President Blunt followed with a brief address that the new dormitory will be named Jane Addams in honor of one of the country's greatest citizens.

Miss Whitney, one of the trustees, then gave an interesting talk on "Why we call this building 'Jane Addams':" The answer to that question is not because Jane Addams is such a prominent woman, and not that she was the only woman to receive the Nobel prize for peace, but because the trustees feel that she had the intellect and quality which they wish we students would acquire. She will be an inspiration to us all.

The laying of the cornerstone was followed. Those who participated were Mr. Freeman, chairman of the Board of Trustees; Miss Louise Harris, representative of the group of Norwich people who raised the fund to be used in the building; Miss Ruth Hall, class of '39; Mr. Bodewin, editor of the New London Daily; Miss Margaret McKelvey, representing the student body who contributed the remains of the Blanket Tax from the years '33, '34, '35; and President Blunt. Two contributors, Mr. Hale, and Mrs. Nicholas Pond of Milford and New London, were unable to attend.

After the cornerstone was successfully laid, Miss McKelvey expressed the students' satisfaction in the new building. She congratulated the President and the Trustees for their vision and foresight and stated that this is another step toward permanent progress for the college.

The choir then led in the singing of the Alma Mater in which every one heartily joined.

Wig and Candle Play Previewed By Drama Critic

Critic, Stephen Hegarty, is Director of WIGA Theater in New London

It was a pleasant evening Wig and Candle gave us last Saturday. The society and Mrs. Ray deserve praise.

In assigning individual credit for the success of a professional theatrical enterprise, the critic sometimes encounters a hard task and may frequently come to the conclusion, theoretically, that as it should be. In a well-produced one no one's work should stand out as more important than others. However, there is no doubt where credit belongs. Mrs. Ray worked wonders in getting a group of young Americans to approach as closely as did the Wig and Candle actors, the artificial manners and speech of 18th century extremists.

The approach was closer in the gestures and mannerisms than in the style of speaking. It is far easier to imitate a gesture, a way of holding the body, a manner.

Fathers From Many Places Joined In A Busy Weekend

One hundred and seventy fathers, coming from as far as Little Rock, Arkansas, Grosse Pointe, Michigan and as far north as Augusta, Maine, spent an entire day celebrating Father's Day, Saturday, May 16. After visiting classes, they went to the cornerstone-laying ceremony.

While performing wonders in getting a group of young Americans to approach as closely as did the Wig and Candle actors, the artificial manners and speech of 18th century extremists, no one heartily joined.

Well, another Father's Day has come and gone but its memory will never pass. Everything went so beautifully Saturday and a good time was had by all - papas,masas, and daughters.

Did you see Peg McConnell's room last Thursday night? We don't wonder you couldn't get in - with so many flowers popping up everywhere. Mary, Mary, quite contrary, had nothing on you, Peg.

It seems that one of our sophomores hasn't "had a thought since the Spanish-American War," according to her statement in history class. We hesitate to believe you, Flo.

Wonder how a certain bunch of Yale men got the idea that the Kingsdale, and Charlotte Sharp sided with Williams; while Ellen Underhacht, Elizabeth Harling, and Betty Vanderbilt did their bit for Amherst. Down Pennsylvania way, the Ivy Ball at the University of Pennsylvania, and houseparties at Lafayette attracted some attention. Jane Harris, Priscilla Spalding and Fay Irving did the Houseparties; Frances Ernst, Kay Birdwell, Grace Rathbun, and Doris Gorman took in the Ivy Ball. Betty Jean

Dear Editor:

At one of the amalgamation meetings this year, we spent an hour discussing the honor system. We finally devised a new rule whereby we sign a pledge at the beginning and end of all quizzes. It is our belief that we were forced to do this, but cheating exists and it is admirable that we are facing the facts and doing something about it.

But, have you ever counted the number of students at vespers? and then have you ever counted the number of students who have checked for it? (All this holds true for chapel attendance as well). Is that cheating? Yes, it is, and deliberate cheating, too!

If we have given those who were tempted to cheat in quizzes a chance to help themselves back to straight-forwardness, then it is only fair to complete our work and have a more efficient chapel and vespers sign-up system. It is important because this sort of cheating is far more widespread than classroom cheating has been.

My suggestion is signing up as we enter, or else filling out a card and handing it in on leaving. This undoubtedly means a little more work for a few people, but it is worth the amount of deceit in signing up is disgraceful. I'm sure just a little push will set us aright.

You new officers go to it, and help to make our college one about which we will have to be ashamed. Reform the present disgraceful situation.

Freshman Pageant Proves Colorful Event Saturday

Familiar gowns, brilliant skirts, and a comfortable day in May contributed to the success of the tremendously colorful and effective Freshman Pageant. The day was perfect, and the setting, striking.

Perhaps the most outstanding feature of the whole presentation was the magnificent acting. The arrangements and the costumes were particularly well-done, and illustrated an extensive amount of violin and piano sonatas which was scheduled for May 21 has been postponed until early fall.

Dr. Chakerian Will Be Speaker Before Social Agencies

Dr. Charles G. Chakerian, a member of the sociology department of Connecticut College, will speak at the dinner meeting of the New London Social Council of Social Agencies, which is being held on Thursday night, May 21, at the Milestone Hotel. His address will consist of a report of some of the major studies which he has recently made for the Commission to Study the Pauper Laws.

Dr. Chakerian is also scheduled to speak at one of the sessions of the National Conference of Social Work meeting at Atlantic City from May 22-20.

College Leader, Marney McKelvey, Characterized By Poise, Dignity, Friendliness and Competence

Marney's philosophy is "laugh and the world laughs with you" and she lives that philosophy, too. She has every twinkling smile or a cheerful "Hi there," for everyone. Marney is as good at play as she is at work. There is never a dull moment with McKelvey around. It is her natural gift to radiate competence. The usual people dependent, of course, on Elizabeth Fessenhen who wrote, "We Point With Pride."

No less an amount of praise goes to Mary Ellen Chalker, the director, Minfred Valentine, who directed them and was a prominent performer herself, deserves unlimited credit. The basic success of the pageant depended, of course, on Elizabeth Fessenhen who wrote, "We Point With Pride."

Families galore, brilliant skies, and pink of the dancers' costumes blended with the dark green of the freshly-cut lawns, and fantastic make-up of the Evil Spirits added startling contrast.

All of the court characters fitted their roles. Nancy Weston, Katharine Smith, Carolina Sutherland, Peg McCutcheon, and the three princesses did fine pieces of work. All prominent upper-classman said, "This year's pageant was one of the best yet."

Challenge Given To Students by Dr. Eddy At Vesper Service

"You cannot get a new world by talking about it on Monday night or work," challenged Dr. Paul D. Eddy at last Sunday's vesper service. The program of student Inter-League intercollegiate project on which to center activities.

The place to start working is "in your own community," declared Dr. Eddy. Every city and rural village has its underprivileged child who must have leadership during the summer if they are to progress normally. New London is in disgrace here, for it has no summer program. It is far behind in this field than any other city of its comparative situation. As soon as the children are out of school in June, they are forced to seek their own resources and are forced upon whatever plane their parents occupy. If you go to any city in the world, it must work and work continuously. There must be no suicide slumber during the summer, education must be given to twelve months during the year.

College Outpost

The Connecticut tobacco fields present another urgent need for student leadership. The children of the hundreds of migrants who pass through these fields receive no school education. The speaker urged that a Connecticut College outpost in this work would lead an immeasurable service to youth and country, more so than any station for practical work in sociology and economics.

The world's problem of youth education is America's problem, too. If we are to solve it, we must not shirk the work it involves for college students and graduates.

Further Rules For Vacation Absences Newly Announced

The Administration is offering a number of rules for turning absence and an important new interpretation of them. They are as follows:

1. Absence is a matter of honor and conscience.
2. No teacher is required to give extra time in order to make up work, etc., that have been missed. Such extra time, if given, is a special favor.
3. Absence is in return to the student--

4. It is the fee to be doubled also that (4) the bill for this extra fee in each case is to be sent to the parent or guardian, according to the regular course of the Registrar's office.

EXCHANGE NOTES

With the excitement of Junior Prom and all, the Exchange Notes were completely forgotten last week. We apologize to all.

To begin with, we wonder what has happened to our Play Day? We see by the papers that Clark Underground has had one; and The Blue and the Gray reports one in the near future. Let’s have three long hours for a Play Day in the near future!

Here’s a novel way to have a Sing. The Hunter Bulletin announced the winners last week. It seems that each class represents some special thing. The Juniors won depicting the Rhythm of the Times, all members being swathed from head to foot in white and green and white and red costumes. The Seniors placed second, depicting Lady Luck. All participants were dressed in Dice and Roulette costumes. The Sophomores were dressed as Cabaret girls and the freshmen as Money Bags.

A Shower for the engaged man. The Beaver Daily Herald read that North Hope Collegians decided to announce the engagement of one of the freshmen residents there. In keeping with this felicitous event, dormitory residents gave the lucky one a shower, under the University pump. Bystanders reported that the water was fine but the bride was thought not to be enough for the purpose. And then there was a freshman at the University of Maryland who did not care to do outside reading in the winter. It was too cold on the porch—Campus Record.

The students of the College for Women of the University of Rochester went Republican according to the results of the straw vote sponsored by the Campus. Out of 400 votes cast by the faculty of the college Governor Landon received 28 and President Roosevelt 15.

At a recent Open House sponsored by Russell Sage College, the engineers from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute especially interested in the Creative Performances, especially face powders, cold cream and manicure supplies. These same engineers remark that the Sage girls haven’t enough sex appeal to have a stag line at their dances.

Love!

I felt his soft breath on my cheek. And the gentle touch of his hand. His very presence near me. Sounded a break on the desert sand. He self-righted my sights. My head he did enfold. Then he broke the silence with:

"Shall the filing be silver or gold?"

Here are two “pomos” offered by the Tallie:

My mother told me not to smoke. But I love to smoke.

Nor listen to a naughty joke. I don’t.

She told me it was wrong to wink at handsome men—or even think about intoxicating drink. I don’t.

Wild girls chase men and wine and song. I don’t.

I kiss no men, not even one.

In fact, I don’t know how it’s done:

You wouldn’t think I had much fun, I DON’T.

My love have flew
Here I do I
Did me not know him
Were a first
To those in love let I forbid
That he be dined like I’ve been dined
Darn he
Me hate he
Me wish him were died
Tell him I loved him
But darn he be lied.

Fecile play depicting the evil of war, were read by Pearl Myland, “There is an interesting cast of characters: a German scientist, an American dancer, a French internationalist, a munitions manufacturer, and a Russian woman.” In a little town on the Italian-Swiss border when a second world war breaks out, Miss Myland read a scene in which Irene, the Russian woman, accuses the munitions maker of being responsible for the tremendous outrage of war and death. Her language is strikingly brutal, and gets at the very heart of what is most gruesome and terrible in war.

Antidote for Poisoning

Columbus, Ohio—(ACP)—An effective antidote for the deadly carbon monoxide poisoning is the goal of Samuel Seifter, Ohio State student who has explained his experiments in a paper read at the recent convention of the American Chemical Society. Seifter reported that 75 per cent of the rats he poisoned with carbon monoxide in developing his antidote, recovered after injections of a solution of ferrie chloride and hydrogen peroxide.

Spirit of Jane Addams Lives On in Name of New Dorm

Connecticut College, by naming its new dormitory the Jane Addams House, has symbolized perhaps the highest achievement of womanhood. Miss Addams has become one of the beloved figures of the whole country since she began her work at Hull House nearly a half-century ago. People of all stations and walks of life recognize in her the culmination of efforts at once practical and spiritual.

When Jane Addams was graduated from Rockford College for Women in 1881 she was puzzled as to what her future should be. She continued studying both here and abroad for several years and gradually came to formulate in her mind the "project" which eventually grew into the extensive work carried on at Hull House. It was not until 1889 that this practical ideal found the means to begin her work.

Tell About Study
At Exeter College

Connecticut College for Women heads the list of American colleges in the number of undergraduates who spent their Junior Year at Exeter College, England, in 1935, according to a recent survey of the Institute of International Education. A number of students who have returned from their Junior Year abroad have given in a series of letters their impressions of life in an English University.

Writes Miss Isabel Harely, Connecticut College '36: "The contact with foreign students in a classroom as well as in extra-curricular affairs was to me the most outstanding experience Exeter College offered. From a financial standpoint, a college year at Exeter should appeal to most American students as the yearly tuition is approximately half that of our average college. The living conditions in an English dormitory are not as elaborate as those of an American dormitory but are adequate and comfortable. I cannot recommend too highly the many advantages of Exeter, which employers, generally, demand in shorthand and typewriting. An intensive secretarial course for College Women is also available at The Packard School.

The Clubs

In a discussion before the German Club Wednesday evening in Windows Mt. Walter Landé, Prussian Minister of Education, spoke of the life of Germany's school system and its problems. There is a startling dualism in this system which is criticized because it is not liberal and democratic. The elementary and secondary schools serve only the upper middle class and give an education which is an end in itself. After the war a movement was started for a unified school system, similar to ours, which resulted in a half-hearted attempt to break down the tradition and feudalism of a crowded and poverty-stricken nation.
