Margolin withdraws name from ballot; Nominations for president reopened

by Anne Rebillard

Leslie Margolin, the only person to nominate herself for the position of President of the Student Government Association, withdrew from the race Monday. Believing that the Presidency is "the single most important elected office at the college," Ms. Margolin said she was "greatly disturbed" over the fact that she was the only person interested in running for the office.

Faculty governance plan

Passes by vote of 56-19

The faculty approved the proposal for a new Faculty Governance system, with amendments, by a vote of 56-19 at a special faculty meeting last night.

The main feature of the proposal, the steering and conference committee, remains essentially the same. A major amendment was the inclusion of another student to serve on the committee.

Academic and Administrative Procedures Committee, making a total of three.

The committee has termed the change in the language concerning College Council "an important link for communication." The amendment added, the steering committee will elect the representatives to College Council and that the representatives will maintain a council of pre-reg. possibilities

Committee investigates

Pre-reg. possibilities

If this committee does recommend the institution of pre-registration, "the students will have to treat this thing very seriously," said Mr. Wayne Swanson, dean of the faculty. The problem in the pre-reg. system continued, was that pre-registration was taken very lightly.

Swanson explained that the students would receive a list of next fall's courses in the spring and would fill out their course selections on computer cards. The class of 1980, transfers, and R.T.C. students would have to fill out their cards through the mail and room would be reserved in the lower level courses.

With course enrollment known in the spring, it might be possible to guarantee almost every student admittance at the courses of his choice, said Swanson. Courses with very low enrollment would be dropped and more sections would be added to the heavily enrolled courses.

If we do have a system of pre-registration, student choice in September will be narrowed somewhat," said Swanson.

Swanson added that students who wish to change their courses in the fall will not be able to be guaranteed a seat which is full from the spring.

"I happen to favor it myself," said Swanson, and Margaret Watson, dean of student activities said "I happen to be personally a continued on page twelve.

Trustees approve budget; Music fees to increase

By Anne Rebillard

The recommended $680 increase in tuition and room and board has been approved by the Board of Trustees. Mr. Churchill, in a letter, said that the recommended preliminary budget was approved in its entirety.

The major change in course fees is a $150 charge for individual music instruction. There has previously been no charge if lessons were taken in conjunction with a music theory course. The charge will be applied to music majors as well as other students taking music lessons.

The reasoning behind the charge is its logical basis in instruction with one teacher to one student. Since it is necessary to hire outside faculty for the instruction the fees will be applied to their salaries. Mr. Ames stated that in order to offer in instruction a charge will be necessary. He also emphasized that students will be able to qualify for financial aid, as the increased costs will be seen as higher tuition.

There is a $30 increase in graduate fees including a $30 application fee. This increase was explained by Mr. Churchill as making graduate costs more compatible with undergraduate costs and are justified since graduate students take more faculty time.

Summer and evening course fees are scheduled to go up to $250 per course with a comprehensive fee of $15. This is an increase of $10 and $70. Pat Hendel, director of the summer and evening sessions expressed deep concern over the rise in fees. She fears that raising the fees will be a self-defeating process as Connecticut prices itself right out of the market.

She believes it will work against the goals of the program which are threefold. The program provides an opportunity for area people to come to the college and further their studies. It gives the faculty extra income and generates revenue for the school.

Other course fee increases are in ceramics and film. There will be a $30 charge for ceramics so the art department can continue to buy clay in bulk. There will also be a $10 charge for the History of Film.

Galbraith Cancels

Citing an unrealized prior commitment John Kenneth Galbraith, the scheduled commencement speaker, has cancelled out. In a letter to Mr. Churchill, Galbraith, noted for his works in economics and government, explained the reasons as well as expressing regrets and a desire to be a speaker at a later date.

The cancellation of his schedule arose because of his commitment to a BBC series on the history of communism. Mr. Galbraith stated that the sections dealing with the film, and the sections dealing with the film, and the sections dealing with the film, and the sections dealing with are to be filmed in the Soviet Union and they are scheduled to do so during the last two weeks of May.

Mr. Churchill stated that the class would continue to look for a speaker and that Mr. Galbraith cancellation was in effect all part of the process.
Is there anybody out there who cares?

What does it take to get the students on this campus involved? People were concerned once signs announcing the possibility of not having coffee at lunch appeared but who has been concerned with the many interrelated financial issues leading to this situation. It's ironic that more students are concerned about coffee than about running for student government.

Perhaps when students go to classes one day and there are no professors to teach them, or when they return in September to find their singles in the Complex have been made into doubles they will become involved. Will students finally get interested if the exam schedule is reduced and they have only seven or even five days to take four self-scheduled finals that are 50 per cent or more of their course grade? The list of possibilities can be extended, but our point is obvious. These are the issues that Student Government concerns itself with. Who is Student Government fighting for when no one shows up at meetings to give their support and express their views, even at the request of Student Government? Moreover, who will do the fighting?

Pundit is appalled by the fact that only one person was committed enough to run for President of the Student Government Association and supports the principle behind Leslie Margolin's withdrawal. It is now up to students to take advantage of the opportunity presented by the reopening of nominations. Or would the students on this campus like to see how well their views are represented if Student Government ceases to exist for a year or more? At this rate that's exactly what will happen.

Vandalism costs Us

The time has come for all members of the College community, students, faculty and Administration, to make a concerted effort to stop this wilful destruction. Everyone into acting to stop this wave of some magic wand, but from the same source that permits continued attendance at Conn.; our pockets. The budget for Physical plant is made up almost entirely by the sum paid each year for room and board.

Other schools have solved the problem of theft and damage. It is time we considered new ways of stopping un-needed and un-wanted replacement bills. We should investigate the possibilities of governing boards, set up committees to be replaced during a year, the bigger the party that could be thrown by the dorm at the end of the year. Or, even more desirable: the bigger the amount that could be returned to each student.

Though this is not the only option, responsibility on the part of the entire student body is needed to keep the property of the college in usable, enjoyable condition.
Growing controversy leads to Consideration of reform

by Janet A. Noyes

The Senate Agriculture Committee is meeting this week to consider legislation to reform the Food Stamp Act of 1964. The Food Stamp Program has been the subject of much controversy in the past year. In a speech last summer, Secretary of the Treasury William Simon called the program a "haven for the chisellers and rip-off artists," and an example of Federal social programs that are "spinning out of control."

"The Food Stamp Program began," he said, "as a small $14 million experiment in 1962. By 1970 it will cost over $6.5 billion a year."

Mr. Simon neglected to say that the reason the program has grown so much is that in 1962, it was an experimental program serving only a few counties. Now, it is a program in which some 30 million people are eligible. Many of these people are eligible because they are unemployed.

The Food Stamp Act of 1964 was designed "to strengthen the agricultural economy by encouraging farmers to achieve a fuller and more effective use of food abundances; to reduce the levels of malnutrition among low income households through a cooperative Federal-State program that food assistance to be operated through normal channels of trade; and for other purposes." So far, it is successfully strengthening the agricultural economy, but the program does not seem to be able to improve the nutrition of poor families.

The purchase requirement was built into the program to ensure that recipient families spend at least 30 per cent of their income on food, thereby ensuring them of an adequate level of nutrition. Eligible clients purchase their monthly allotment of food stamps in accordance with their income and family size. For example, a family of four with an adjusted monthly income (gross income minus a series of itemized deductions) of $250 would pay $71 for a monthly allotment of $162 worth of food stamps.

Another problem with the program is that the application and certification process is too complex. The average application form is 44 pages long, and requires a ninth grade education to be able to complete it.

Eligibility guidelines are lax and inconsistent. The family that

Letters to the editor

Disillusioned

The following was submitted to Janet Pegh, chairman of the election board and pundit.

Dear Janet:

Although I have already nominated myself for the office of President of the Student Government Association, I have additionally submitted my platform to "Pundit" for publication, I do hereby wish to remove my name from consideration.

The Student Government Presidency is, perhaps, the single most important elected office at the college. I am greatly disturbed by the fact that a campus of approximately 1,600 students would allow one student to run unopposed in an election of such significance. If I could believe that each and every student supported me, I would be flattered and would accept the office with great alacrity; however, I would allow me to believe this. Surely there are students that oppose me, and there are probably students who consider themselves more qualified. Why then won't they exert themselves to oppose me for office? I think we, as a student body, are suffering from a severe case of apathy. My question is, "What do we do about the apathy?" I cannot justify nor can I rationalize apathy of this magnitude.

Because of my disillusionment with student interest here on campus, I could not, in good conscience, accept the Student Government Presidency having run for it unopposed. A successful President must have a mandate and visible support from the people. In the absence of a competitive campaign, I believe neither a mandate nor visible support. Without these, I sincerely believe that I would be unable to adequately serve the needs of the community. I have complete confidence in myself and in my ability to be President. What I am searching for this either community support of opposition with regard to that confidence

It is based on these considerations that I withdraw my name from consideration at this time. I urge Election Board to re-nominate and I implore students on this campus to show their concern.

I thank you for your continued concern and cooperation.

Yours very truly,

Leslie Ann Margolin

To the Editors:

I cannot resign myself to the end of the foreign language dorm. The dorm, which provides a living language experience, is imperative for learning and maintaining knowledge of a language. How many of us have studied a language and realized that after a year or more we have forgotten so much that we can barely communicate?

Language is an art of communication, which automatically assumes the ability to speak the language. One must also have the opportunity to think in a foreign language—not a real possibility in only three to five hours of class time per week. The dorm provides both of these. It is surprising how much one can learn and remember with normal practice.

The language dorm provides the necessary bridge from dialogue and drill to actual use. It is impossible to overemphasize the importance of this, particularly for beginning students. Having taught English as a foreign language last year, I can say with some certainty that, even as an instructor, I got students to learn complicated structures in drills, it is somewhat easier to develop the ability to use these forms in free speech. This step can only be made through practice, which is what the foreign language dorm makes available. What is unfortunate is that more students do not take advantage of this opportunity.

Come over and join us at mealtimes—see how much Chinese, Spanish, French,

Vice-President

J.B. is one of fear. The purpose of having a student judiciary body is to provide judgment by a peer group in alleged violations of the honor code. This should instill a sense of comradship, not one of fear. Though all Board members should attempt to dispel the fear element by being open and honest with the student body, the chairman must especially try to do this since it is he or she who informs students of Board proceedings. He or she must answer most questions on behalf of the Board. Currently the chairman is responsible for submitting a lot of J.B. cases to Punfit periodically. This is not enough. Perhaps the chairman should write articles from time to time with the Board's functions and the problems which seem to be occurring most frequently on this campus. This is a formal means of communication. The informal means, one student must feel free to consult with the chairman at any time about any matter with which they feel he or she can be helpful. This is especially true when students encounter problems with behavior. It is understandable that the academic violations, students sometimes express a lack of specificity in their accusations. If the student feels uneasy about confronting a professor with a question, he or she must feel comfortable about coming to the chairman. If the chairman conveys receptivity and students are well aware of where and how the chairman can be reached, perhaps, there will be less hesitancy about approaching him or her.

Aside from these functions dealing directly with the Judiciary Board, the chairman is a member of the Executive Board of Student Government. As such, he or she must represent the student body at large on Student Assembly and College Council. This past year issues such as the new library, centralized dining, and of course, our ever-present tuition, have been brought before these bodies. There are certain to be more issues of the same import during the coming year. I feel that as member of the Executive Board, the same quality of openness one must convey as chairman should exist on the part of Executive Board member. We will want to know what we are going to get in return for $4,500 or our next year. It is up to the chairman as an Executive Board member to find out and make sure we agree that our best interests are being represented.

I feel that the actual structure of the office of chairman of Judiciary Board is nearly perfect. It now remains the task of the chairman to work with the school — not to be seen as someone set apart or above the student body as “the Lord High Executioner” as one of my professors kiddingly referred to the chairman as earlier this year, but as a fellow student willing to put time and effort into better communications. I am able to devote the time and more than willing to assert the effort.

Judiciary Board

Tammy Kagan

After serving as Judiciary Board secretary for one year, I have decided to seek the chairmanship of the Board for the coming year. The insight which I have acquired in observing the workings of both the Board and chairman has enabled me to make this decision. The chairman serves a number of functions. He or she must run a fairly structured meeting so that discussion is productive. I feel that I have learned how to conduct the meetings in such a way as to achieve maximum effectiveness.

In dealing with the rapport between the Connecticut College student body and the Judiciary Board, I believe the chairman’s role must be somewhat expanded. The only feeling I sense among students here toward the faculty and administration are indeed crucial to this scheme, it seems as though students must take the initiative for anything meaningful to happen. Students must attend College Council and Student Assembly and find out what’s happening on campus. If you want more social events, go to one of these meetings and speak up — don’t just sit around and lament what you consider an “unchangeable” situation. If you have another problem you wish the administration to hear, come forward and speak.

If elected as Vice-President, I would be Chairman of the Finance Sub-Committee of Council, Chairman of the Election Board, and attend all College Council and Student Assembly meetings, among other duties. I would like to see increased communication between the various mentioned above and more awareness on the part of administration as to what’s going on around here. (Are students willing to try and reduce vandalism? Are students willing to try and stop further tuition increases?) Are students happy with the workings of the Faculty Ad Hoc Committee on College Governance? We must try to put some more LIFE into this campus.

I would like to introduce myself to the Connecticut College community by first stating that I am a member of the Class of 1978. I bring myself to the attention of the campus community because I am currently seeking the office of vice-president of Student Government here at Connecticut College.

My reason for seeking this office essentially is because I am interested in seeking a sound student governing body at Conn College. I realize that the only way we are going to achieve this is through the process of Student Government elections. And that is why I am running. I am interested in the overall student movement on this campus, and the role that we as students have in the various decision-making processes of the college.

My qualifications for running for this office is simply that I want the job. By wanting and running for this office, I am making the commitment to you the student body, that I am willing to give my time and energy to doing the best possible job that I can. Too many times we sit down and complain about things among ourselves, while never taking the initiative to try to stop change. Running for this office is my way of taking the initiative in an attempt to bring about a stronger, more active student governing body.

In speaking with many of the students on this campus, the things I’ve heard are (1) the rising costs of attending Conn College; (2) what will be done about the lockers; (3) whether the new one is completed; (4) the need for more social, and recreational activities; and (5) improvements in the sanitary conditions of the dorms.

I am not in the position to make any promises as to what can or cannot be done about these and other issues. I can say, however, that if I am elected these issues will be looked into and given the utmost concern and attention.

My involvement in extra-curricular activities thus far include: member of student-faculty committee; participant in Freshmen Orientation Program; member of the Executive Board of Unity House; member of the social committee of Umoja; member of the Parent’s Weekend Program; and involvement in intramural sports.

Currently I would like to urge everyone to come out to the SGA Election Platforms tonight and vote for the support of the college community in my bid for this office; and I would like to urge everyone to come out to the Student Senate Senate tomorrow and vote for the support of the college community because I seek the office of Vice-President of Student Government here at Connecticut College.

An honor code is an essential element of any community. Here at Connecticut College the principles of academic and social honor are the guidelines of much of our behavior. The Judiciary Board is the instrument through which the honor code is implemented and interpreted. As a responsible institution within the framework of the student government association, the Judiciary Board has obligations to the students and administration of our community. Through its decisions and policies, the board should strive to uphold both a high level of academic and social integrity within the community, and to protect the interests of the members of the community. Such an honor code however, also places responsibilities on students. The honor code states that any student who is aware of a possible infraction should report it to the board if he or she is able and willing to commit it to report himself to the board. Each Connecticut College student accepts this responsibility when he (she) matriculates. Thus there is a constant interaction between the judiciary board and the community at large which is necessary if the board is to function properly.

The chairman of the Judiciary Board is responsible to both the board and the community. He is responsible to the board as the chairman, but also as a representative of the student body he is responsible to the community. He can then use his position to ensure that a high academic and social standard is maintained, as reflected in the decisions and policies of the board.

I have served two terms on the board. This experience with the handling of cases and the interpretation of policy is invaluable to anyone assuming the position. I realize the character of the board's decision-making power is an important factor in the character of the Connecticut College community. Such knowledge cases, procedures and the board's function are assets continued on page five.

Speaking with Children will be Dr. Stephen Wals from the Institute of Clinical Psychiatry of the Cornell University Medical School, also the Director of the Informed Consent Studies Institute of Fordham University.

Cohen said: "I was not a snap decision. I've put a lot of myself into the station."

Cohen resigns as WCNI head; Cites Blossom letter as factor

Stuart Cohen, General Manager of radio station WCNI, resigned last week in a conflict over policy matters. Mr. Cohen refused to resolve an incident over what he and WCNI President Jack Blossom called "misleading communication." Cohen said it: "was not a snap decision. I've put a lot of myself into the station." The resignation was tendered, however, after Blossom submitted a letter to the station's Board of Directors, which he later withdrew.

The allocation of room 225C, the studio, was the full support of WCNI's board of directors and Cohen believed that he could no longer serve on the board in good faith. Mr. Blossom's letter protested the fact that the administration had given 225C to the AP Wire Service, leaving winter break. Blossom now believes that the administration "should have been more sensitive to the respect to the station by waiting at all in making their decision."

The reason WCNI asked for the delay was an attempt to clarify rules established by the FCC governing the new set of FCC regulations, taking effect on April 15. Blossom explained, "If you have any better method of receiving from the EBS. The system involved a two-tone, fail-safe broadcast which required the purchase of new equipment. WCNI has purchased the equipment and has modified it to serve under the old system until April 15, when the new system will become available."

The FCC did not interpret the regulations in the same manner. There is a considerable delay in WCNI's receiving the information and in turn, relaying it to the administration. In fact, they still have not received written word from the FCC. Blossom stated that the administration was as helpful as it could be under these circumstances and that they had the right to act. He said that he sent a letter to the FCC after receiving a letter from the administration on returning from the winter break, which as back-dated to December 11, in which the station was informed that the Placement Office had received 225C. Blossom felt he was faced with a "fait accompli" and sent the letter as a gesture of protest.

CARMEN IRIS PEREZ

I, Carmen Iris Perez, a member of the class of 1978, would like to run for Social Board Chairperson because I feel this is an important position and I feel that I have the qualities to make a good chairperson. Some people aren't in the mood for beer parties every weekend. They are nice but I feel there should always be something else available, doing the same thing every weekend.

I feel that Colonnels should have concerts more often. Right now my goal is, if I'm elected, to have at least three concerts per school semester. That is to say at least one good concert per month.

I feel that lectures and different types of shows (magical, etc.) should be incorporated into the job of the social board.

I feel that students shouldn't have to leave campus to find social activities. Colonnels should offer a variety of activities to appeal to the diversified student body. I think this is sensitive to the needs of the Connecticut College Students.

I feel that students are willing to get involved and work hard therefore, the devotion of my time to Social Board will not be a waste. I've had several experiences putting together social functions. I was Social Chairperson of the Puerto Rican Culture Club and sponsored a semi-formal dance featuring "Sangre Latina" a latin band. Presently I am a Student Advisor, a member of the Black Voices of Pride, the fund raising chairperson of the Black Voices of Pride, a member of the Asian Guild band, and a member of the Unity Executive Board.

Therefore, you can plainly see that I am the most capable person to fulfill the position of Social Board Chairperson.

I was ripping off the wall.

My name is Goober Gilda and I am running for Chairman of the Senate. Following the tradition, I intend to make quite a few changes in both the quality and the quantity of social activities on this campus in the Fall of 1978, including the Spring and next year. If you vote for me, we're going to party. If you're a student, don't vote for me.

Monday evening, the Cro main lounge was decorated with tablecloths and candles in preparation for an outstanding two hour reading of Nuyorican poetry.

The program began with the rhythmic beat of the conga, setting an atmosphere conducive to the acceptance of words and verses that was to follow.

Three poets participated in the program: two guitarists and a conga player to accompany them.

Miguel Algarin, the first reader, was born in Puerto Rico. He is the translator of Pablo Nervada's 'Cancion de Gesta' (a song of protest), in a book soon to be published. Miguel directs the Nuyorican Playwrights, an actors workshop with whom he performed in the Delacorte Theater in Puerto Rico during the summer of 1973. He has completed his third book of poetry, "Moonlight and Scarlet," and is now working on a novel. Algarin's style is characterized by a fierce realism, which was illustrated in his reading of a poem which takes place behind bars in New York on New Year's Eve, 1975.

He began at a slow, almost subdued pace, describing with increasing tempo a conversation "trying to decide if nuclear war would mean New York in the coming year," and ending with an accented sentence, piecing the world with the awesome realization that "1976 enters in like a glass silver undetected yet causing pain." Along with the world's condition, the human state was described in the stroy of "Willie II," who lay in the streets of New York after a rumble in "apple marphine non addiction."

Miguel Pino, who also was born in Puerto Rico, was the second reader. He received the New York Drama Critics Circle Award and was nominated for the Tony Award of 1974-75. Pino is also a sculptress. His writing were mostly stories dealing with the variety of human behavior and the "mysterious ways in which nature veins scream." He described an "astounding" N.Y. where he encoun- tered many Americans in a van, got stoned on hashish to the song "Hushy Hushy" by the Four Tops. Then they went back to take a ferry to Spain. Luckily he felt at the time. Luckily was suddenly struck with the reality that the ferry was invading Spain just like Puerto Rico is invaded by tourists, many of them on ferry boats searching for themselves. The readings of all three poets flowed, especially those read in Spanish, which is perhaps the most expressive language of human emotion. Even if one did not understand the language, the linkage of one word to another, the accents, and the vividness of sounds made the mood as clear as the best of the congas.

"The Mad Woman of Chaillot," a Theater One production by Jean Giraudoux, will be presented in Palmer Auditorium on March 84. The play, which was adapted into English by Maurice Valency, is being directed by Fred Grimes, director of theater services and instructor of theater.

The story centers around some industrialists, who plan to drill for oil in Paris, and the eccentric woman, Countess Aurelia, who stops them. This woman is not really mad, but rather is only "Une Fole"—a fool who actually is wise.

It is a woman's play and describes the woman's situation in a male dominated world.

In order to keep you aware of the concert happenings in the Connecticut area, we are going to institute the weekly reviews, which, eventually will cover most of the important concerts from New York City and else where. March 22 at the New Haven Coliseum will be David Bowie with Joni Mitchell following him the next night, March 23. On March 26, BTO will also be at the New Haven Coliseum, but finally, Cat Stevens will be there on March 30 (quite a week). The big news, however, will be Madison Square Garden on March 19 for one night only.

Among the new records that were released last week are:

Carole King "Troub threshold" - This is probably her best record since "Tapestry." It's pure Carole King, with none of the placement of her past few records. With James Taylor, David Crosby, Graham Nash and John David Souther in the background, Carole has her piano to work as the lead instrument and complements it with her soft, mellow voice.

Among the songs that make this album are: "Only Love is Real," in which John David Souther and Carole King have written a song that's as close to as imaginative as is imaginable. "(I'll Give you) Money," another one of her best songs, has some powerful reverberating guitar work at the beginning, but the basic rhythm of the rest of the song. There's a version of "Jumping Jack Flash" which could have been cut, since nearly every electric group has their own version and it's getting a bit overplayed. There's really a well done version of "Baby, I Love Your Way," with electric piano and rhythm guitar blending nicely.

If you don't mind live albums, this is a good best-of album.

Jean Barr "From Every Stage" - Another live double album, this one separates Bar's talents into two parts, acoustic and electric. The acoustic section includes "Blows," "I Shall Be Released," an old Dylan song, "Blowin' in the Wind," another old Dvian song which is very poorly done. "The Ballad of Doce and Vanity," a Bar's song which was written for the movie "Sacco and Vanzetti," and the words to which were taken directly from Sacco's letters, and the famous "Joe Hill."

The electric portion, which includes the background music that the acoustic part doesn't, includes an excellent version of "Diamonds and Rust," Dylan's "Forever Young," "Loggins' Please Come to Boston," "The Night They Drove Old Dixie Down," and a Bar's version of the traditional Amazing Grace."
Election '76

As the campaign for Tuesday's New Hampshire primary enters its final week, political analysts are making their final predictions of the outcome. On the Republican side of the race, President Ford's re-election appears to be in real trouble and can only hope for narrowly to edge challenger Jimmy Carter, who is in a strong position in Maine. Carter is also leading in Wisconsin with 60 per cent of the delegates in Maine. The 51-year-old Carter graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1946, and after a seven-year stint in the service, he went into a fortune as a peanut farmer. He was chairman of the Sumter County Doula Education from 1964-1967 and was elected to the Georgia state Senate in 1965 and 1967.

When elected governor of the state, he was in 1970 for the first four years, it's fiscal rollback, which included the declaration of the "time for racial discrimination is over," drew national notice. A competent executive, Carter reorganized the state's 202 commission and 22 agencies. He also instituted a new budgeting concept - zero base budgeting - and in each agency must justify the entire budget every annual approval, not just the increases.

As attractive as he may appear to the electorate, there are charges of having been cozy with the likes of Lester Maddox and George Wallace, and it may have an effect on candidates who are fairly well focused on issues such as abortion.

Spring Internships Emphasize interests

by Mimi Gisot

"It is a little more personal, more tailored to the students," said Rozanne Burt, assistant director of counseling and placement, this year's Spring Internship Program.

The program is "a way to get exposure and more information," Ms. Burt said, rather than a means of getting real experience. She said that students do not receive a salary in order for them to continued on page nine

PMLA Gains Control in Angola

The Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, backed by the Soviet Union, has gained control of most of Angola. The Popular Movement was founded by the Organisation of African Unity this week. Certain other diplomatic developments have occurred.

Zaire and South Africa, the two countries which supported the U.S. backed factions in Angola, are now trying to make diplomatic negotiations with the Popular Movement.

Thus, Angola is being run by a Communist backed regime of which Thomas Masese has been fearful. Although the Administration wanted to back the Popular Movement financially, Congress refused to give aid.

The loss of Angopera may be an issue in the Presidential campaign, and it may have an effect on detente with Russia. Although Secretary of State Henry Kissinger dislikes the Soviet success in Angola, he places a higher importance on a nuclear arms agreement with Russia.

Nuclear Commission Engineer Resigns

The resignation of a Federal engineer for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission is in promises to heighten the conflict over the safety of nuclear power plants. Robert D. Pollard, a project engineer in the nuclear power plant at Indian Point, resigned because he said the plant was unsafe. Pollard is the assistant engineer to resign for similar reasons.

As chief manager of the plant's N 2 unit he maintained that the unit was properly designed and also that the Regulatory Commission was licensing unsafe reactors. Because Pollard and the other three engineers are all experienced with nuclear power plants, their resignation will probably strengthen the cause of those against nuclear power. The Commission has denied the accusations of Pollard and the others.

Patty Hearst Testifies

Patty Hearst has for the first time given her version of the two months spent with the Symbionese Liberation Movement. During her trial for bank robbery this week, Ms. Hearst maintained that she collaborated with the S.L.M., because she feared that they would kill her. During the cross examination the prosecutor wanted to point out that Patty did not take chances to escape when she had them. Ms. Hearst replied that she thought the F.B.I. might harm her also because she was a fugitive.

In the week Ms. Hearst gave her version of the kidnapping experience. She said that she was ganged in her apartment and knocked unconscious then transported to a house where she was left in a closet for days. She continued on page nine

Lu Priore stresses 'variety' as focus of 76 Koine

by Mimi Gisot

The Koine " candidits are taken from the beginning of October until the February deadline by a staff of 13 people. The editor-in-chief said that he told the staff to "attempt to try and capture the entire campus as you see it through photographs." He added, "I told them when they went out that I didn't want to see the same face twice."

LuPriore's aim this year was to achieve the greatest possible variety. He said that the yearbook contains candidits from the Halloween party, the party on the campus green, the opening activities, the tug-of-war, and has an excellent sports section. In order to have the widest choice of photos, "we must have gone through about 190 rolls of 35mm black and white film at 36 exposures per roll," LuPriore added.

He said that the senior pictures presented the largest problem. Students had the choice of having a professional photograph taken in front of Cummings, in the arboretum, downtown, or anywhere on campus, or else having their photographs taken by a friend. Since the deadline for these pictures was not observed, it had been extended three times before it was finally set at November 19.

LuPriore explained that the faculty section is very informal, since he "attempted for the first time to get the faculty outside of their office," He wanted this continued on page nine

Lit. Journal a reported success; Palmer pushes for higher sales

Following a reportedly successful fall issue, the Con. College Literary Journal is now compiling the winter issue, to be published after the break, and the spring issue, due to be out at the end of the semester. Student input into the Journal has allegedly been steady and of a generally high caliber.

The winter issue will be structured similarly to the previous issue in that it will again present works that represent a disparity of genre - short stories, poetry, satire, essays, etc. However, this issue will include an expanded poetry section and more experimental photographic techniques.

The editorial board of the Journal is attempting to rectify the problem of sales by instituting a subscription program. Students may receive a subscription to the winter and spring issues of the magazine for approximately $70. It is offered to fulfills being provided by Student Government and projected advertising revenues can be provided to the student body at such a reasonable level, Palmer said.

Palmer also stressed that material is still being accepted for this issue.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Conn. College Literary Journal is now offering a subscription package for the winter and spring issues. The cost of the subscription is only one dollar, as compared to the newsstand price of 75 cents per issue. In addition, at a bonus, the subscriber will receive the fall issue of the Journal at no additional cost.

The Journal needs student support if it is to continue publication. Please fill out this form, enclose one dollars, and send to:

Dear Editor,

Apart from the average, normal work day at Conn, life is surprisingly placid. The exception to this rule, in addition to hockey, when while sitting at lunch I overheard the most intriguing story and decided to share my work with those serious-minded students who have decided to take up communications otherwise referred to as spreading the bad word. For those of you especially concerned, I'm sure you will not find this thing to sink your teeth into, but to eat as well!

Do you know...? "Hey, how ya doin'? How are those good ole stimulating classes going? Oh, by the way, did you know that...? Well I practically got it out of the horse's own mouth (she does look a bit like a horse anyway heh!) that... Why I never would have believed it, although some say everyone is turning. Hope it isn't contagious, cos you can imagine an epidemic of it. I'm sure that I am still unaffected, at least to the best of my knowledge—I do feel straight. Anyway, just I came from the complex, and boy, you should have seen so and so's purple elephant on the bed—why if that isn't proof of you know what I'll throw away my cuddy teddy bear.

Kennedy, finally, is he from the horse's mouth! Since he is surrounded by current prejudices against the Eastern establishments or the Southern Bourgeois.

In speculating on the outcome of the Democratic contest in N.H. one is facing a risk yet I will make a prediction nevertheless. Finishing first will be Jimmy Carter followed closely by Birch Bay, with Mo Udall finishing third.

Campus history

Government became president of the House of Representatives. By 1780, the division between the executive and legislative branches had completely disappeared and evolved into the system we have today. The 1780 Constitution states, "The separate branch of student government are the Student Assembly and the Judiciary Board. Student Assembly is the representative, legislative branch of student government."

It's life?

Not only that, but the whole planet is reeling with the scent of Eternally Yours toilet water. It's just plain disgusting and so un-American to see such perversion on campus. In fact, I think you should visit the infirmary and let them give you a checkup, and by the way, watch out for that nut with the purple contact lenses and the luriid uniform. What? I don't care if she does know the preponence we are to suspect everyone. Besides, did you ever stop to wonder why they called it the Imperial Presidency? Yeah, with that crown on his noggin', he's probably the ringleader. I'm going to publishers and must not disappoint the boys, we're having a special guest for tea. Wh0, oh, do you think I could say the name of Elaine Noble?

Affectionately Yours, Benign Garfinkel

Corporate Bribery

This week new disclosures about corporate bribery by foreign officials were made to the Administration and other governments.

A senate subcommittee has been investigating the activities of many multinational corporations. Among the wrongdoers the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation was a principal one. The company is estimated to paying at least 24.4 million dollars in bribes for sales in Japan, Germany, the Netherlands, and Columbia.

Reforms of these practices will be made for many years. For example, if Japan is found guilty of investigating itself. The inquiry will have world wide effects. The principal reasons against reform will be the attitude of the business world. Military sales is an intense business competition. Not only is the military sector of most countries an important employer but it also is an important and necessary aspect of the economy.

Graduate student presses to Introduce wrestling to Conn.

by Steve Price

Well, the backboard still hasn't been replaced and one of the remaining rims has cracked, leaving Commissioner Palten muttering something about peach baskets to himself. However, the quality of the games has improved a great deal over the first week of the season.

In Division I, Smith Burbick I defeated Lambdin, 61-41, led by Tom Bell. In the second, Burbick II, streaked to a 10-0 first quarter and remained in control throughout the game. David Silverstein led Lambdin with 18 points. The Faculty evening record with a 46-35 win over Connecticut.

Icers win close contest; Look ahead to Quinnipiac

by Chris Abbott

The Connecticut College hockey team has had one game since the last issue of the Pundit, yet one. That was another game in the Wesleyan Intramural League. This time Conn. hockey took on a team called Cromwell. The outcome was another victory by a score of five to four. The game characterized by hustle and desire on the part of the Connecticut Club was again proved that it is time to move on.

The hockey club is looking forward to the games with the University of Rhode Island and the Coast Guard Academy. The upcoming game, however, with Quinnipiac should prove to be the highlight of the season. The game will be played at the Hamden Sports Village, in Hamden, Connecticut (just below New Haven), Sunday, Feb. 25, 1973 is the date for the showdown; it will take place at 5 o'clock.

The contest should provide excitement for all. Hockey fans will remember that last time Conn. met the Quinnipiac the game was close and Conn. eventually lost, as a direct result of conditioning. The outcome this should be far more favorable as many dedicated hockey players have been running the Quaker Hill course to get in shape for the big contests of the future.

Small roster leads to Cancellation of meets

by Kathy Dickson

The remaining winter swim meets have been cancelled. The decision to do so was based on the fact that there are only six women participating, which is not enough to hold a legitimate meet. In this case, it is not fair to the team members of the College, or to the team Conn. is racing, to run the meet.

It is the hope of the physical education department and the members of the team that the team will grow next year and that there will be a full schedule of meets. The department is looking into the future of competitive swimming for men as well as women.

Mr. Para and Mrs. Wagner are very interested in hearing from students with their ideas and opinions on the future needs of, and plans for the swim teams at Conn. They can be reached at the physical education office, ext. 22. Interested men may also contact Bruce Parmenter, box 1654, and women may contact Kathy Dickson, box 760.

Gymnasts outdo URI...

The Connecticut College gymnastics team defeated the University of Rhode Island in their home gym, Feb. 26 by a score of 68.60 to 61.32. This evened the record for the Conn girls who now have two wins and two losses.

The Conn team won all four events in total points, clearly overpowering their competitors with consistently strong performances in their best showing of the season.

In vaulting, Ann Drouillet second with a score of 7.30, while Marcy Connelly took third with 6.75. The uneven bars, a difficult event in most gymnasts eyes. It requires strength, agility, precision, time, and guts. The Conn. women are improving on this piece as in this meet they swept the event. Marcy Connelly placed first. Carol Vaa took second, and team captain Ann Drouillet came up with third.

The balance beam routines were performed with precision and style by the Conn team. Lynda Florian again impressed the audience with her flair. Her flowing combinations of movements and the startling height in her leaps gained her first place and a score of 6.60. Sue Pollock placed third for the Conn team with a 5.85.

Free exercise has come to be known as the team's strong point. The girls once again performed with precision, dynamic energy, and grace. URI. tapped them in the difficulty of moves performed, however. Connelly was top scorer for the Conn team, taking second place with a score of 6.85. Nonetheless, even though URI took first and third places in the event, the scoring was so close that the Conn girls still won the event. Their performances were consistently high scored. The event was won with team scores of 19.9 for Conn. and 19.57 for URI.

The Connecticut College team is now halfway through its competitive season. It is once again on the road for its final three meets. The next one is Thursday, February 19 at the University of Bridgeport.

Ten is a perfect score

Scoring of women's gymnastics is complex and subjective. There are four events in which each team performs: vaulting, uneven parallel bars, balance beam, and floor exercise. Each team is allowed to have as many competitors as they desire, but only the top three scores from each team on each piece of apparatus counts toward the team score.

The highest team score wins the meet.

A perfect routine is worth ten points. Three of those points are given for difficulty of the gymnastics stunt. Each stunt has been classified as a beginning, medium, or superior move. In order to gain all three points, a gymnast's routine must contain at least three superior and four medium moves. Execution and amplitude each count for two points. Execution is how accurately a gymnast performs. Amplitude is how big she makes her move. An athlete who is classified well would not count as much as the same leap if it were done higher.

Because women's gymnastics is a synthesis of dance and tumbling, originality is worth 1.5 points in a routine. General Impression (poise, manner, physical appearance) counts for one point, and Composition (moving with natural ease from one move to another) counts for .5. A judge deducts from this score any flaws he sees.

Vaulting is scored a bit differently. Each kind of vault is classified and awarded points corresponding to its difficulty. The judge deducts from this score for any flaws he observes.

There are usually four judges at a meet. The high and low scores are discarded in each routine and the middle two scores are averaged together. This average is what is announced as the gymnast's score.

On the other hand Joan King, dean of freshmen, said that pre-registration "puts freshmen at a tremendous disadvantage." She explained that the freshmen will not have a chance to discuss courses and professors with upperclassmen before they register and will be more likely to change their minds in the fall. As it stands now, she continues, there is no comparison between the course forms which freshmen fill out in June and the course which they choose in September.

Larry Knight, college treasurer and business manager, said, "I have no prejudices one way or the other — literally. It can do no harm, I don't think that it saves any work and I don't think that it provides any substantial improvement."

Knight said that since students now have so many electives, it is probable that many students will want to change their courses when they return in the fall. "This is a kind of problem that will always be with us," he added. Pre-registration may be able to accurately predict course enrollment, "and we may find that this is highly indicative of student interest, and we won't know until we try it."
