The doctor comes with much goodwill But ne'er forgets his 3
He takes the patient by the hand,
And compliments him as his friend,
He sits awhile his pulse to feel,
And then takes out his Calomel.

4
He then turns to the patients wife,
Have you clean paper spoon and knife,
I think your husband would do well,
To take a dose of Calomel.

5
He then deals out the precious grain,
This ma'am I'm sure will ease his pain,
Once in three hours at toll of bell,
Give him a dose of Calomel.

6
The man grows worse quite fast indeed,
Go call the doctor ride with speed,
The doctor comes, like post with mail,
Doubling his dose of Calomel.

7
The man in death begins to groan,
The fatal job for him is done,
He dies alas, but sure to tell,
A sacrifice to Calomel.

8
And when I must resign my breath,
Pray let me die a natural death,
And bid the world a long farewell,
Without one dose of Calomel.
