"He sleeps his last sleep he has fought his last battle,
No sound can awake him to glory again."

BOSTON

Published by OLIVER DITSON, 23 Washington.

Entered according to Act of Congress, 1843, by Oliver Ditson, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of Mass.
Oh shade of the mighty, where now are the legions That rushed but to conquer when thou ledst them on A - last! they have perished in far hilly regions And all save the fame of their triumph is gone The trumpet may sound, and the loud cannon rattle They heed not, they hear not, they’re free from all pain, They Yet spirit immortal, the tomb cannot bind thee,

For like thine own eagle that soared to the sun
Thou springest from bondage, and leavest behind thee,
A name, which before thee no mortal had won.
Though nations may combat, and war's thunders rattle,
No more on the steed wilt thou sweep o'er the plain;
Thou sleepst thy last sleep, thou hast fought thy last battle,
No sound can awake thee to glory again.

No sound &c.
