CHORUS

Someone more lonesome than you,
Someone with true eyes of blue.

Day by day she wanders through the wild wood,
Dreaming of the love that once she knew.

She's waiting and sighing in vain
For you promised you'd be true.

While you're living in the bright lights with the merry and the gay,
There's a loving heart you've broken just to pass the time away,

And she is more lonesome, more lonesome than you.

There's you.

LYRICS BY LOU. KLEIN  MUSIC BY HARRY VON TILZER

This poem to be recited during the second chorus up to the last line ("For she is more lonesome, more lonesome than you") which is to be sung.

POEM

LONESOME, one little word but oh what it means—
A word that portrays a thousand sad scenes,
Picture, a dog and his master, whom no one could save,
As he sits there and whines o'er his master's grave.
Though he kicked him and beat him when it comes time to part,
Even a dog dies of a broken heart.

Picture some old mother all wrinkled and gray.
Her son's at the front fighting day by day;
Her poor heart grows weary, she's soon laid to rest
And God only knows it was from lonesomeness.

Take a lad who is lonely, in some lonesome town.
He does a great wrong, two old heads are bowed down,
A year or two passes, and the prodigal son
Returns, is forgiven, when all's said and done.

But put the poor girl in the lonesome lad's place,
The wrong's not her fault still her name's in disgrace,
Does someone forgive the prodigal girl?
No, they drag her down lower to the gut of the world.

Then they all wonder why she is walking along,
Selling her soul for the price of a song—
So think of the girl when you're lonesome and blue—
For she is more lonesome, more lonesome than you.
