Moderato.

You say that you don't want me any When I a-wake and find that you're not more,

My heart is sore,

They're going to hear,

You

near,

my dream is o'er,

some crying,

I'll

have no time for loving such as mine,

And you

show them how an aching heart can break,

And they're never, never will no more; You say: "good-bye" without going to see me shed some tears, Don't say to me: "It out a sigh, But this you can't deny: had to be," I don't want sympathy.

CHORUS
There was a time you used to love me,

There was a time you used to say:

There was a time 4
"Come and cuddle little daddy, daddy do, do you love your little huckleberry, do?" And then I knew I was your little huckleberry daddy, too. There was a time you used to cry for, there was a time You said you'd die— for one kiss of mine,

But one fine day you went and left me,

But I'm here to tell you, cruel baby, there was a time.

There was a time.
